

Don't Tell the Wife

Licking his lips, the red fox leaned back on the bench and raised his paws to the bar for another set. The gym was busy with furs and his black lips twisted into a grunt as he brought the bar down to his chest, back arched for best form, and thrust it upwards in a smooth arc, arms trembling. Sweat darkened patches beneath his arms but he ignored it as he repeated the motion, half-rack towering above him. His eyes avidly followed the path of the bar to ensure he was completing the motion correctly and he lost himself in the moment, muscles working to overcome a failing in strength that could only be rectified through shifting iron.

He re-racked the bar with a clang of metal on metal, sweat pouring off his forehead as fur stuck to his muzzle.

When he sat up again, muscles burning, he took a gulp from his water bottle with the red cap, plastic crinkling in as his throat worked thirstily. The set had not exhausted him, although it was a nice burn. In his gut, he knew he could do better. But that was not his goal of the day, not by a long shot. It was not that he wasn't working out, of course not. It was just that he liked doing other things at the gym too. Alongside enjoying the eye candy available.

It was a new gym to him, though that notion was nothing new. Silver, as he had come to be known despite being a red fox and not an Arctic fox, had proven to be excellent at getting himself kicked out of gyms and health clubs, lasting no longer than a few months at each one in turn. Huffing to himself, he got up from the bench, tail flicking, and added a couple of weight plates to the barbell, sliding the clamps back into place afterwards with a slight scrape of metal. Getting kicked out was a pain in the tail, though it could not be helped when it came right down to it. After all, it was not his fault that he rather liked lifting his tail for other males in the sauna or the gym when it was quieter or even after hours. One of his best deals had been with a personal trainer who took him on for quite some intimate personal training amongst the rigs and racks when the rest of the gym patrons had left for the night.

Perhaps he played into his stereotype as a fox but, hey, who could blame him when there were so many choices out there? Resting on the adjustable bench, his eyes roamed the weight room with the half and full racks lining one side and dumbbells stacked in their respected locations on the other. There was more than enough equipment for everyone, though that was not the focus of his restless eyes. The black bull doing dumbbell pullovers on another bench caught his eye and smiled with parted lips, muscles bulging as he returned his concentration to his lift. Silver smiled in return and tilted his head to the side, paw tucked into the waistband of his jogging bottoms. He had never learned the bull's name even if he knew exactly how the male's cock felt dumping a load of cum down his throat.

Wiping sweat from his brow with the little blue gym towel he always carried with him, the fox sprung lightly to his hind paws and pulled the weight plates from the bar to replace neatly on the half-rack behind. It was bad form to leave weights laying around for anyone to step on or have to move before setting up for their own exercise and, despite his extracurricular activities, he left every machine or rack behind him in pristine condition. As he stood, he flexed and stretched his arms over his head, fur tugging over lightly developed muscle. Silver was one for strength rather than mass and his lean, tightly packed muscle had deceived more than one suitor who had thought to pin him down too easily. The fox smirked at the memory and padded across the Olympic matting to the locker rooms, through which he could access the pool. His burn out bench press was done and the strength part of his workout completed.

Now for some more interesting cardio.

A light smile played across his muzzle as he walked into the locker room with metal lockers lining almost every wall, keys dangling from those still unused. It was a single room and, standing in the entranceway, the fox raked his gaze over every inch of it, taking note of which furs were currently perched upon the wooden benches in the centre with clothes hooks rising above, just for convenience. It was partly occupied by three furs, all going about their business with little care or glances for the others half-naked around them. It was a good thing that Silver had more than enough looks for all of them. There were no secluded spots in which to change and that was exactly how the fox liked it.

Stalking to his locker with a cocky tilt to his muzzle, Silver dug the key out of his pocket and delved inside, searching through his rucksack for a pair of swim trunks that would be revealing enough to satisfy his need. He grumbled to himself and thrust his head into the locker as they did not immediately jump into his back, not thinking to drag the backpack out instead. Tongue sticking out of the corner of his mouth in concentration, he did not notice the shadow of another gym goer falling across his back, caught by the glaring overhead lighting strips.

A heavy paw landed on his right shoulder and Silver jumped, smacking the top of his skull into the locker. He cursed, fur standing on end, and backed up, rubbing his head in circles as the dull, throbbing pain burned. It had not been a hard hit, and he would probably be okay, yet embarrassment seared his cheeks a burning crimson to match his fur. He could only be glad that his fur hid the majority of it, though furs with more acute senses could always tell.

Turning on his heel, the fox started, staring into a broad, bare chest that blocked his view of the locker room itself. Looking up from the dirty-red coat and black nipples standing up gloriously from the anthro's pectorals, Silver caught the eye of a leering bongo, one paw back behind his head as if to show off his muscles. A pair of grey horns rose straight up from his head, at first angling outwards but then curving in as if to meet after a few inches, framed by two petal-shaped ears. The fox's eyes were drawn to the stranger's biceps, bulging massively as his chest and stomach rippled with muscle, fat cut away to reveal abdominals that Silver ached to drag his tongue over, again and again. By the gods above, he would worship that stomach!

Well, there was no question about whether or not he wanted the bongo, at some point. Silver would do it on his terms though.

Leaning back against the lockers, he played off his embarrassment with a light chuckle and ran his paw down the bongo's chest, muscle tensing beneath his fingertips. The very ends of pale stripes that ran across the bongo's back to his side just peeked into view as the male shifted, a good head and shoulders taller than the lithe vulpine. Wrapping a familiar mental paw around his gym persona, the fox's brown eyes glimmered with wicked delight.

"Hey, cutie." Silver winked flirtatiously and wagged his tail, careful to add in a slight sway to his hips. "What can a fox do for you?"

A large, black tongue snacked out to curl over the side of the mammal's muzzle with the flash of lighter red brown running across beneath dark amber eyes and a soft, grey nose.

Silver shivered to think what he could do with that tongue. Sucking it between his lips or feeling it dig into his tight tail hole before the bongo moved over his body to take him with a nice, hard shaft.

“Oh, many things...”

The bongo’s lips twisted in an unwholesome smirk and he leaned on the lockers, one paw with hooved fingertips beside Silver’s head. Unease stirred in the fox’s chest and he curled his paws into fists, calming his breathing for the moment that instinct threatened to overwhelm him, telling him that he was trapped and it was either time for flight or fight. Feral instinct was a real bitch at times. Instead of allowing panic to rear its ugly head, the fox stepped smoothly to the side and ducked under the bongo’s arm, though he allowed his coat to brush the hoofer’s side as he passed. He was not a complete slave to lingering instinct, after all.

“I would love to hear about them,” Silver retorted smoothly from his new position beside the bongo, heart hammering in his chest. “But, for now, I’m going to pop into the pool. Would you care to join me?”

Only one answer had ever been given to that question, in his experience, and the bongo was about to subvert everything the fox had ever known.

“No.”

Silver’s ears twitched and uncertainty flashed across his eyes, narrowing ever so slightly at the corners. What was up with the bongo and his leering eyes?

“No? I was under the impression you wanted to talk?”

He blinked, confused but unwilling to let it show as he stood tall and crossed his arms over his chest in a decidedly less impressive show of muscle than what the bongo was able to put on.

Exhaling heavily, the bongo blew warm, undesirably scented breath into the fox’s face, the acrid aroma of cigarette smoke. Coughing hard enough to make his eyes water, Silver waved his paw in front of his muzzle and took another step back away from his still open locker. The other furs in the room, an antelope and a wolf, were quiet, watching the action with avid eyes.

When the bongo did not speak, Silver rolled his eyes and made as if to walk away, to turn his back on the silly fur, but was stopped by a paw gripping his bicep far, far too tightly for comfort. Eyes darkening, the bongo leaned in, dragging the fox closer at the same time. Silver’s breath caught in his throat and he tried to pull away, only to find his strength inadequate in the face of the larger male. In the corner of his eye, he saw the wolf stand, tail still in unspoken threat.

“I’m past talking to you, slut.” The bongo rolled his eyes, using the derogatory term as casually as if he was talking to a close friend of many years in candid conversation. “I know all I need to know about you and more than I’d like to know. You’re going to have my dick in your mouth in the next two minutes, boy.”

Though his heart leapt into his throat, Silver stifled the surge of anger and twisted suddenly, yanking his arm from the bongo's grasp with the element of surprise. Growling, the male lunged for him but the fox danced out of his reach, tail tucked down over his rump as his eyes sparked with anger. Who the fuck did he think he was to demand sex from him? A fucking blowjob? And he wasn't a slut! Who gave a damn if he had fun with others or not? He wasn't at their god damn disposal.

With space between him and the bongo, Silver fell back on his natural boldness, hind paw tapping the cream-flecked floor as he bit down his anger. Not about to get thrown out of another gym for a reason deemed less than good enough, he turned away, leaving his locker open as he thought to fetch someone with a little more authority at the gym. The front desk was always manned and at such a strength and training focused establishment, he couldn't see them tolerating the abuse. The irony of him breaking the rules with frequent disregard was not lost on him, however, and the fox grimaced.

"Sorry, darling," Silver said over his shoulder with a dismissive flick of his paw. "Not if you're going to bully me around like that. Try again later. Or try talking to a lad first, hey?"

"You're going to get in there and suck my cock right now," the bongo hissed into his muzzle, hot breath washing over Silver's snout.

Swallowing hard, Silver refused to quail and stood nose to nose with the bongo, eyes flaring fiercely. Just because he liked to have his fun with others didn't mean he could be forced into anything? That was a different fucking matter entirely!

He straightened, setting his shoulders back. What could the bongo do to him, really? He had enough witnesses to back him up. If the bongo towed him away, one of the others would step in or grab one of the members of gym staff to aid him. Not that he couldn't take care of himself.

"Get in there now...or what?" He challenged, lips quirking in a smirk of his own. "What, exactly, do you think you're going to do here? You ain't got nothing. Drag me in? Someone will see. I'm sure that will go down fucking well, hey?"

The bongo's eyes narrowed as the wolf looking between them chuckled, seeing the folly in the ploy that the bully demanded. Leaning in close to the fox, he put them nose to nose, snorting warm air over the fox's muzzle. Silver grimaced but held his ground as the bongo's lips twisted cruelly.

"Or I'll tell your wife what you've been doing during your gym time..." He said too quietly for the others in the locker room to hear, tone low and threatening. "If you can even call it that, cock sucker."

Silver froze, fur flattening to his body as if he had been doused in icy water. Blinking, his vision flickered with grey and the room seemed to tilt around him sickeningly, making him sway as if he had had far too much to drink one evening. His lungs tightened and he struggled to breathe, tail tucked down over his buttocks as if for some semblance of protection. But there was no protection to be had from the cold, hard truth.

He had a wife. A wife that he never spoke about once he was within the walls of the health club, gymnasium or anything other of that persuasion.

Silver swallowed hard, ears slanting back to his skull. He was well and truly had. He didn't want to even consider what his wife would do to him if she found out. What else was a fox to do? With a sick roll of nausea in the pit of his stomach, he knew there was only one option. If only his tail did not quiver at the thought of another cock in his muzzle, regardless of the conditions it was under.

Knowing that he had nailed the fox's weak spot, the bongo stood back and flicked his ropey tail, thwacking it into his thigh with a light smack. He did not need to use brute force as he stepped away, eyes smug and head tilted cockily. The fox would follow, already broken to his fate.

"Come with me, fox."

Head lowered, Silver tried to paint a smile on his muzzle and followed the bongo with two steps to stand beside him, white tail tip twitching anxiously. His cock swelled in his jogging bottoms to bulge out subtly and Silver resisted the urge to cover it with his paws, for that would only draw more attention to his shame. His cheeks flushed with heat and he ran his tongue around the inside of his suddenly very dry mouth, avoiding the bongo's gaze as he waited for him to make the next move. The fox, after all, had no more reasonable moves in his arsenal left to make.

"Is there a problem here?"

They looked to the side, one with confidence and one with fear, to see the grey-furred wolf standing there in casual gym wear and a concerned look in his eye. Gulping, Silver shook his head, blood roaring in his ears.

"N-no," he stammered. "Nothing's wrong at all, t-thank you. Just a joke. Friend caught me a bit unawares and it's after gym time, you know."

He slipped more easily into the lie as he spoke, hating how easily it slipped from his lips. He was well used to lying but this lie left a sour taste in his mouth that no amount of lapping his lips could dissipate.

Satisfied by the albeit stammering explanation, the wolf nodded and backed off, returning his attention in part to his belongings and changing out of his sweaty gym clothes. He kept a careful eye on the bongo and fox, however, the light flick of his tail betraying his watchfulness. Huffing with a dramatic roll of his eyes that was entirely unnecessary, the bongo jerked his head to the side, smiling a smile that did not warm his eyes.

"Come on, fox, let's go check out the pool," the bongo murmured loud enough for show, clapping a far from friendly paw down on Silver's shoulder.

He strove not to shudder away and instead bobbed his muzzle, taking the lead as if he was going to show the bongo where the pool was, assuming that the male was yet to explore it for himself. Padding lightly over the flooring in his gym trainers, the fox swallowed his nerves, snakes twisting in his belly, and rounded the corner out of the locker room. Silver forgot that he left the locker door swinging open behind him but no one else thought to mention it, least of all the bongo with a cocky saunter to his stride.

He entered the corridor leading to the pool, nose twitching at the overpowering scent of chlorine. Some establishments used gentler chemicals and cover up scents so that it did not strain sensitive noses; this gym was not one of them. Any fur wishing to complain could do so and end the day regardless with the stench of chemicals running coarsely through his or her fur. Silver's mind was not on the obnoxious stink, however, and he felt the presence of the bongo all too acutely as he paused at the door to the supply cupboard, paw trembling. He did not want to go in.

Yet he had no choice. With a lump in his throat, the fox ducked into the cupboard quickly, afraid someone would see, and let the door swing back in the bongo's face. Let him open it himself. The fox would not make it easy for him. His heart pounded against his ribcage as he backed into the dark room, his hind paw bumping a mop bucket situated beside a stack of weight plates. There really was everything and anything in a gym supply room. He would have found it funnier at another time.

The bongo stepped inside with a grin more suited to a predator as he groped his bulge, which pushed more obviously against the front of his gym trousers, demanding release. And, if release was not readily given, Silver had no doubt in his mind that the bongo would take it by force. That's where his threats came into play, curling into corners of the fox's mind that he never wanted to explore ever again.

As the bongo followed him to the back of the small room, the fox shrank away, lips curling up from his teeth as he loathed to be cornered. Silver still did not even know the bongo's name. Though that in itself was no unusual for him.

The bongo leaned on the wall, paws either side of the fox's head, and grinned toothily. One tooth was crooked and Silver latched on to this imperfection to lend himself courage, trying to ignore the rancid male's breath.

"What the fuck are you talking about my wife for?" He hissed through gritted teeth, talking big talk while his legs shook. "You have no fucking business bringing her up. Do you know Sylvia?"

The bongo tilted his head, eyes cunningly sharp in the low light.

"Oh, I know Sylvia very well, slutty vulpine."

The bongo stroked his muzzle with a rough caress, dragging the back of his paw back along Silver's face when the fox shuddered away from his touch.

"And you would do well to remember that," he told him. "I could destroy your life, your little world, in a single message. Do you think Sylvia would like to know?"

Silver refused to think about it, turning his muzzle to the side. He couldn't help but realise that, even though they were well out of sight of anyone else, the bongo had not yet made a sexual move on him. The most he had done so far was intimidate him and successfully so. Thinking quickly, the fox's mind raced. Perhaps the bongo was not as big in mentality and power as he would have him believe. Silver nipped the inside of his lip. He had to call the bongo's bluff.

Silver took a deep breath.

"I won't do it." He folded his arms across his chest. "You're all fucking talk, you are. Ain't going to —"

The bongo snarled, a deep, guttural sound that sent tremors through Silver's gut and made him push away, pinning himself to the wall. Not to be toyed with, the bongo's paw lashed out and struck Silver's throat, knocking him to the side with a strangled yelp lost with his breath. The bongo followed as he fell, reaching out for the fox with a manic gleam to his eye, a fur that had lost his senses entirely.

"Either you get down on your knees and suck my dick right now," the bongo whispered, paw closing around Silver's throat, "or I tell your wife exactly what you are doing during your gym time. You don't fucking need me to repeat it, do you, cunt?"

The fox shook his head, kicking out and striking nothing as he whined against the bongo's hold, his body a traitor to his better senses. Why did his cock have to bulge out so? Why, why, why, why, why? He scratched at the bongo's arms and wheezed, chest heaving as he gasped at non-existent air.

"Please..." Silver whimpered breathlessly even as his cock grew hard and throbbing in his trousers, the lack of underwear allowing blood to rush unrestricted to his member. "Don't tell her. She doesn't have to know. She's happier not knowing!"

"Then why do you do it, slut?" He demanded, paw tightening to cut off the fox's air supply as he dragged him upward, hind paws dangling.

The hind paws of the vulpine kicked in the air and he scrabbled at the bongo, eyes bulging out of their sockets as his vision flickered, misting over with grey. Snorting, the bongo dropped him and the fox crashed to the ground, rolling on to his back as he wheezed and rubbed his throat, eyes on the mammal's hooves as they brushed his fur too lightly.

"Huh. Figures. No fucking answer a slut like you can give."

Gasping, the fox's lungs heaved and he ducked his head down as his tongue lolled from his muzzle while he recovered on all fours. The tip of his brush dipped to the floor and his ears . If his cock wasn't harder than ever, he would have sank his fist into the bongo's stomach. As it was, the red rod of vulpine flesh drooled with pre cum, clear fluid beading on the head and begging to be lapped up. Silver gulped and stifled the urge to roll his hips forward as a thick, fleshy pole of bongo meat sprung into his face, released from the confines of the larger male's workout trousers. He was not the one who was going to be receiving a blowjob.

"Suck it."

Flinching, Silver bobbed his muzzle and leaned in, parting his lips to engulf that throbbing, pink length in his mouth. Not the largest he had taken, it still strained his lips into a wide O-shape and he brought his paws up to the male's thighs, curling his fingers into the muscle to anchor himself in the moment. His tongue pressed to the underside of the length and he slid down until the tip nuzzled the back of his throat, letting him know that he could go no further. Drops of moisture trickled down his throat and, instinctively, Silver gulped, drinking down the bongo's pre cum as if it was the finest wine on the planet earth. The fox should have been revolted, he should have pulled away in disgust, sworn at the bongo for making him perform such an act when he was in no way, shape or form into the act. Yet he made no move to pull away and thoughts of his wife were far from the forefront of his mind. If only it didn't taste so good. Silver whined, the sound muffled by the length. Why did it have to taste so good?

Groaning, the bongo huffed and rolled his hips out, lazily fucking the fox's muzzle as he casually rested a dominant paw on his head. The hoofed fingertips scratched through his head fur and the fox shuddered, though not from any urge to pull away. Instead, his legs buckled so that he sat back on his heels, trainers digging into his rump, and freed the bongo's balls from the confines of his jogging bottoms with a quick swipe of his paw, so swift that he had the pair of orbs cradled before the controlling male could even blink. Raising an eyebrow, he huffed above the fox and pinched an ear between a thumb and forefinger to spark a sharp twinge of pain. Just to remind the fox who really was in charge, regardless of whose balls Silver cupped oh so reverently.

Silver rolled the bongo's balls between his fingers as he allowed the male to rock into his muzzle, holding his muzzle obediently still for the throbbing length. The hoofer grunted, a deep, guttural sound than made lesser males drop their ears, and drove in deep, eking out a little more depth with every thrust as if to tease the fox with his masculine power. Submission shivered in a cool trickle down his spine and the fox yipped quietly for breath when the bongo pulled back, dragging in quick gulps whenever he was permitted. The soreness around his throat served as an acute reminder of how his breath had been cut short and he almost wished for it again. Maybe if he asked the bongo nicely...

The fox flinched. He should not think like that! He had to remember that he wasn't doing any of this on his own terms. It wasn't like all the other times with the males he willingly served on his knees. They were different, very different.

And the bongo was in control, well and truly. He could not possibly forget that or pretend otherwise, half gagging on the male's shaft as it teased into his throat, threatening to go deeper. Anxious, Silver tried to subtly pull his head back juts enough so that he could control the depth but his new 'friend' wasn't having any of that, oh no. The bongo smirked down at him and shoved the back of the fox's head so that his nose pressed to his crotch and Silver convulsed with suppressed coughs, fighting down his gag reflex with every ounce of control he boasted. A smaller part of him thrummed with pride that he was able to take every inch, though his eyes watered terribly.

"This is all you're really good for, isn't it, slut?" He chuckled, driving in to the hilt with a lusty, full throated moan.

The bongo patted his head mockingly, treating him like a feral dog to be trained as he pleased. Using the full length of Silver's muzzle and throat, the bongo growled dominantly, the sound rolling through the supply cupboard, and thrust brutally, jamming the head right down the fox's throat. Silver hacked a cough and submitted to the abuse, eyes watering through a haze of lust as his cock throbbed and spurted pre cum down his throat, the salty treat bypassing his tongue as the bongo huffed. He thrust roughly, uncaring for the fox's comfort, as Silver released his balls, letting them slap into his white furred chin as he whined and gulped, throat tightening sporadically around the fat cock. The bongo's crotch whacked his nose with every thrust and he trembled, utterly helpless with his tail tucked between his legs and pre cum soaking shamefully through his trousers. He could have knelt there in the moment forever, if the bongo had been so inclined to use him, and quite happily so. Even the most virile male, however, would reach climax sooner or later. And the bongo was aware of movement on the other side of the door even if his slutty little fox was not.

The fox's eyes grew wider and wider as the bongo's thrusts became urgent, bordering on desperate as he neared the point of no return. And he had no intention of pulling out – the fox would have to take every inch and every drop that the male had to give, if he wanted his wife to remain blissfully oblivious to his activities. Then he could spend all the time on his knees he wanted. Slamming in a final time, the bongo gave a loud groan as he ejaculated, resting his cock in the fox's throat to pour cum straight down. Silver had no choice but to gulp quickly to keep the spurts coming, stimulating the bongo's cock until he drained every drop of seed from his balls, which were as full and plump as ever.

Silver bet that the bongo stud had even more to give even as his cock quickly softened in the fox's muzzle, slipping out with a lewd drizzle of cum and saliva. He couldn't be certain that he could take another round, however, and looked down at the bongo's cloven hooves, spread apart for balance, and how the fabric of his clothing draped beautifully over muscle. In any other circumstance, he would have loved to feel those muscles moving over him and a part of him still craved it, the throb of male flesh in his paw.

Wiping his cock off on Silver's muzzle, the bongo grinned and turned his attention to the fox's taut rump, muscled from years of gym work that was not entirely in the squat rack. He dragged the weak-limbed fox up by the scruff of the neck and, ignorant to the turn of sound outside the door, pushed him into the racking, muzzle thrust down. Staring at bottles of floor cleaner and clothes piled high, Silver bit his lip as his jogging bottoms were yanked down around his ankles, baring his backside and cock jutting out proudly from his crotch like a flag pole. It was smaller than the bongo's and the male wasted no time in chuckling, wrapping a paw around it and pressing his hips to the vulpine's rump possessively.

He leaned forward and hissed in the fox's ear as the door opened a crack, the murmur of voices growing louder. The tapered tip of the bongo's cock kissed his tail hole, cum his only trace of lube, and tightened his grip on his partner for the session, words curling on sinuous trails through the fox's mind. And Silver's eyes grew wide.

“Maybe I will tell your wife...”