

Mistress of the Whip

Sweetheart, it is never that easy.

It is never that easy to bring a true man under your hand, wind his leash about your hand. And pull tight. The boys will break and whimper and grovel at your feet, adoring them with kisses that never dig deeper than the surface. Perhaps a boy could be trained to bring you glasses of wine and paint your toenails a fierce scarlet, but that is about all the use there is for them. No, there is a much greater delight than holding a boy beneath a pointed stiletto heel. A woman seeks the finer tastes of a male whose eyes bore into their soul, dominance challenging and tempers flaring. He may smirk. He is strong and he could overpower you in an instance, if he so chose. The difference is that, with you, he will not do this. You have him within your control, completely and utterly. In the end, that is. When it begins...a real man will fight you.

And it's your task to bring him down.

Living alone in a detached house, not too far out of town, may seem idyllic for some. My life was perfect to outside eyes. The house had a lawn and a driveway and all the normal things, painfully normal, that one would expect from a woman in her mid-thirties. I would not tell you my age, however – that would be uncouth. You do not ask that of a lady, did you not know? I possessed a good job in an office and was working my way up the career ladder. Pretty boring stuff when it comes right down to it but it paid the bills and satisfied my tastes in the finer side of life, even if something was sorely missing.

Dating came less easily to me than my comfortable lifestyle when men realised I was disinclined to vanilla life. I had heard the word 'freak' far more times than I can count, though that is no longer of any matter to me. Words bounce off when you have seen a male writhing in bondage, your strap-on cock driving into his backside while he begs for mercy. A new dating pool opened up to me and, despite not keeping the lads around for longer than it took to fulfil my needs, my sexuality since sparked into a roaring fire.

I leaned back into my armchair with the curved back, crafted from dark brown leather that gleamed in candlelight. How it shone so wonderfully was one of the reasons I had chosen it. The other was that it added to my aura of power. I liked that power.

My toy of the evening, a strapping young man whose name I'd put to one side entered the room. He was my favourite breed: handsome, muscled, tanned and always naked in my presence. His black hair was tousled although I had bid him to come presentable. Perhaps this was as presentable as this one came. That would have to change. He carried a silver tray – authentic, of course – with a single wine glass in the centre cradling ruby red wine. The liquid swilled back and forth in the glass as he clumsily stepped up to my chair, lowering himself to his knees with not an iota of grace. I smiled.

Sometimes, a little extra power went a long way.

Placing the tray on the side table beside my 'throne', he lifted the wine glass to me, fingers curled around the bowl to offer me the stem. I took it delicately, eyes never leaving his. When he was broken in, his eyes would not come up from the ground without my permission but the best ones always took time to break. There was beauty in the breaking and I was going to enjoy every second of his insolence before claiming him as mine.

“Will that be all?”

He stared me down, hazel eyes locked with mine as if he expected something more, that little quirk at the corner of his lips. He took in my attire, a corset and latex thong that left enough to the imagination that I could be anything he wanted me to be, if I so chose. Yet that was for him to please me, not the other way around. He had to be what I wanted him to be.

I adored the new ones, I really did. They came to me thinking that I was a woman that would crumple at their feet and gaze up at them with girlish eyes, eyelashes fluttering oh so sweetly. They were always so surprised, after all that, the build up for months on end, when I was not so easy to break. I am not easy to break at all. Persistence will out, they said, but it was yet to prove true for me.

I shook my head.

“You’re forgetting something, boy.”

He rolled his eyes and heaved a sigh, exaggerating the motion with a roll of his bare shoulders, rounded and muscled in testimony to all the time he undoubtedly spent pumping iron. It could have been a vain pursuit or a respectable one. Only time would tell as I slowly opened him up to me.

“What am I forgetting?”

My lips curved into a wicked smile – one that I knew he would take as a challenge. Though he’d not done entirely badly so far, I’d give him that.

“Go clean up the kitchen,” I directed, turning my eyes back to my book, left with a bookmark to denote my page on the side table. “You left the dishes in the sink from dinner. I want it as I left it before.”

Though the order was simple – I wouldn’t have given anything more complicated to one with his mind on his cock – his lips twisted and both eyebrows shot dangerous high. His blatant disbelief was almost cute.

“Clean the kitchen?” He repeated, scoffing. “C’mon, we both know that’s not what I’m really here for, you’re just winding me up.”

“I assure you that I am nothing but serious.”

He shifted back on to his heels, though I was pleased to stay that he stayed on the floor at my feet. That was a good sign at least. Some – before him – had immediately jumped up and petulantly waved their arms about, making demands that I gave them what they had come for, what I apparently really wanted after all my games. They had tried to intimidate me. They had tried to get their way. They had failed.

“You have signed a contract for the night, boy.” I felt my eyes narrowing just a fraction, though I didn’t need to draw any more steel into my glare. “If you are invoking the clause to end our liaison, well... You can show yourself out.”

He paused, eyes shifting between me and the door. I could have laughed at his helpless indecision. He was just like so many others, expecting a bona fide femdom experience where he was chained, bound and beaten – all for his pleasure, of course – and allowed to go home at the end of the night with his cock softening between his legs, having spent himself so many times that one time more would be one time too many. And he hadn’t found me up to his expectations. I didn’t play around and I wasn’t about to bend to the will of some wannabe submissive.

I sipped my wine, deliberately avoiding his stare. He’d have to get out of that bad habit too. No, I played for my pleasure and he had better learn that swiftly or else make good his escape. There were plenty more I could call on for pleasure.

Poor lamb, too innocent for my touch. He wouldn’t be getting off with me.

He turned on his heel, perhaps thinking his abrupt departure would alert me to his derision. Yet he left all the same and I knew he would be in there cleaning the dishes, even if he made more noise than was strictly necessary. My eyes slid to the clock on the wall. He did not take as long as most of the stubborn ones. I smiled. He would be a delight.

I seated myself more comfortably as the water ran in the kitchen, china clinking as he put himself to the task. My wine commanded greater attention than he and I slowly, delectably drained the glass, sip by sip, as I allowed him more than adequate time to go about his work. Only when the last ruby droplets had slipped from the glass to my lips did I set the glass aside and rise, my sights set on the kitchen.

What greeted me was not a welcome one. He stood with his arms crossed, foot tapping the smooth tiles as he threw his gaze between me and the dishes as if demanding acknowledgement of his accomplishment. Soap trickled down the plates and I inhaled slowly.

Did he think I would miss the scraps – tiny spots, really – of food still clinging to the plates? My meal from earlier not wiped cleanly from their surface.

He tilted his head cockily to the side as I shook mine, the grin not leaving his face. I smoothed my hand over my hip.

“Did you think this would be an adequate job?”

I frowned, hating to put such an expression on to my face when I was all made up for my pleasure. Yet he’d displeased me and his smug grin roused something fierce in the pit of my belly.

Rolling, his shoulders, the boy cast his eyes to the ceiling with a sigh that could have shaken the foundations of a kingdom.

“I didn’t think I’d be coming out here to wash dishes,” he said, flashing me what he probably thought was a winning grin. “I’m better than that. Better than all the others I’m sure you’ve had.”

I raised an eyebrow.

“All the others?”

He blinked, taking half a step back. I hid my smile.

“I’m sure there have been others. Others wanting to come out to see you.”

My expression did not change and he flinched, shuffling his feet. His bare toes curled into the linoleum and he shivered, perhaps his nudity chill on his skin in the kitchen. But I did not care much for his comfort in that instance.

He sighed.

“What? Why are you just staring at me?”

“Because you haven’t elaborated.”

He scowled, handsome face twisting into the ugly.

“You didn’t ask me to elaborate.”

I stilled, patiently watching and waiting as his discomfort grew. He could wince and shuffle as much as he liked though – I had all the time in the world.

“You have had others here, haven’t you?” He said eventually, breaking the silence stretching between us. “You had the ad on the forum. You wanted people to come here. You were looking for people just like me...” He hesitated. “Weren’t you?”

I pursed my lips, just enough for him to notice.

“What makes you think there were many of them?”

He laughed at that, throwing his head back as his cocky smile returned.

“Someone only has to look at your photos up there to see what a slut you are, Harriet. They’re plastered all over the place. It couldn’t be more fucking obvious that all you’re really looking for is to get your cunt filled.”

I inhaled sharply, nostrils flaring. Yet it was nothing I hadn’t heard before. It was what they liked to assume, after all.

“You don’t get to use my name tonight. I am Mistress to you and that title alone.”

He smirked.

“And what exactly are you going to do about that?” He rolled his shoulders and yawned, stretching and flexing the muscles in his arms. “Can’t we just get to the chase and get you on all fours already? I’m sick of these games. It’s all going to the same place anyway and I don’t know why you insist on playing these games.”

I smiled, hiding my fury behind painted lips. That little boy didn’t know what he was playing with.

“Why did you take the time to sign my contract if you didn’t like playing games?”

He snorted.

“Not as if I took the fucking time to read it. It’s not going to be binding.”

“Yet anything I do to you that’s contained in that contract will be regarded as consensual.” I lifted a hand, my smile too innocent to be believed. “If you believe you’ll be screwing me on all fours tonight, you are incorrect. So very incorrect.”

My words, so formal, slipped sinuously from my tongue, practiced. It was not as if they had not passed my lips before. The boys were no different, all wanting the same thing these days and expecting to get it with minimal effort.

I pressed on.

“But if you want the treatment that will pleasure both you and I, then you may be in for something a shade more desirable, my sweet.”

I caressed his face, running just my finger up the line of his jaw to his lips. He trembled, eyes fixed on mine. I was impressed by how they did not drop to my bosom, not even once throughout my whole little speech.

I grabbed his face, holding his stare unblinkingly. He flinched, but I would not release him, fingernails digging into his chin.

“I am not for you. You are for me. Get that into your thick skull and maybe we’ll get along here, boy. Or else you can leave. Walk out right now, if you’re not prepared to give me exactly what I want and forget your own pathetic desires.”

He cast his eyes down, smirk twisting into a stubborn frown. But the reaction of his body told me all I needed to know. I pushed him away, letting him stumble back half a pace as his cock rose, swelling with blood. Of course, I had not allowed him any clothes. He didn’t deserve clothes in my presence.

I snapped my fingers. I had him, I knew I did. But I couldn’t let him know that I knew.

“Follow.”

Turning on my heel, I strode from the kitchen, pacing straight through the room where I had seated myself previously. I had something far better in mind than what play could be had in there.

To my surprise and subtle pride, he followed me without a word until I paused in the doorway, a slip of black fabric in my hands. He eyed it distrustfully and I raised and eased it over his head without a word. It scooted down over his eyes, its function clear: a blindfold. He shivered, the tremble running through his body and down the length of his cock. I smiled, out of his sight. I was confident it was aching hard. Just for me. All for me.

Only not quite in the way he expected.

“You have much to learn, little one,” I whispered, following up the blindfold with a cool circle of latex around his throat, buckling it neatly at the back of his neck. “And I will be there to teach you every step of the way. All you have to do is give yourself to me, completely and utterly.”

He reached up to touch the latex, though I couldn’t help but notice the tremble in his fingertips.

“What is this?”

“I don’t recall asking you to speak. Must I gag you? Your moans will be delightful and I would hate to quell them so.”

He froze, pulse fluttering at the base of his throat.

“Since you should know, this once... That around your neck, boy, is a collar. A latex one.”

I trailed my hand down his toned chest and stomach, stopping short of his crotch. His lips parted, but he held his words back, cock twitching as it pulsed with blood.

Excellent. He was learning.

Clipping a chain leash to the collar, I jingled it lightly, letting him hear. He started, head jerking up higher.

“Come now. Follow me.”

Leading him into part of the house that he had not yet had the privilege to see, I took him upstairs, his steps faltering as he turned his head from left to right. He did not reach with his hands to balance himself, instead trying to take each step with his feet alone. Easing over smooth carpet, I let him take his time, keeping only enough tension in the chain leash to let him know I was there.

“Mistress?” He whispered, head ducked as he looked for steps he could not see. “I... What if I fall?”

Pausing halfway up the stairs, I rested my hand on his chest, fingers splayed so that they grazed his collarbone.

“You’ll simply have to trust me. Come on now.”

I encouraged him on and, in no time at all, we found ourselves at the top of the stairs. He stumbled, expecting another step, but I let him find his own feet. He'd have to keep himself balanced in a much more precarious situation, after all. This was only practice – a reminder of our differing status.

Leading him into what he would later learn was my playroom, I dropped the leash, leaving him in the centre of the room with no sense of direction. He turned his head, seeking bearings that would not come, as I circled him, heels clicking over the floor. I shivered, taking a moment for my own, delicious pleasure. I adored that sound.

And he would be everything I needed, even if he did not know it at the moment. A firm body, rolling with muscle... Oh, it had been so long since I'd had one as fine as him in body, a spirit primed for breaking. As fun as he would be to play with, however, he would have to be punished for his earlier transgressions. Something in the rise and fall of his chest, on the other hand, told me it would be exactly the brand of humiliation he craved.

"Arms above your head, boy."

He made a face, but did as told, turning his head from side to side once again as if he could see through the blindfold as if he tried hard enough. He'd soon give up on that though.

"Good...good..."

Grasping the chain hanging from the ceiling, I let it lower to his raised wrists, bumping lightly against palms and fingertips in a metal kiss. He spread his feet further apart, swaying even though I had not attached him to the chain as yet. I smiled. He reacted just as I thought he would, pushing towards the true object of his desire.

I ran my hand down his back, latex cuffs tucked neatly into my other palm where he would not see or feel them.

"For now, you have a latex collar, boy. Do you know why that is?"

He shook his head, lips pressed firmly together.

"It is because you have not yet earned my leather collar, boy."

I circled him again, heels clicking rhythmically. Pausing in front of him, I studied the lines of his face, lips parted as if to take my lips up against his own. But those would not be the kind of kisses he'd be getting from me.

"If you wish for my collar, my ownership, you shall have to earn it. You must prove your servitude and, yes, your love. It is not my place to tell you how to do that. That would be spoon feeding you and, frankly, I don't have the time to educate a submissive in how to be submissive. You've claimed, quite ostentatiously, I may add, that you are the best of the best already."

He flinched and I laughed, latching the latex cuffs around his wrists and securing them tightly with the buckles away from curious fingertips. With the cuffs locked together, palm to palm, there would be no way he'd get out of them, not with what I had in mind.

“Ah, did you not think I’d read your profile? It’s up there for all to see. I do my research too. I look at your pictures before choosing my next one, my trial run ‘sub’, so to speak. There’s plenty of options.”

Pulling the chain down, I pushed it through the O-ring on the cuffs and linked it back up with itself, securing his arms above his head with a little leeway. He’d probably need that inch or two of slack, though it could be tightened if I so chose.

He sucked in a breath, chest heaving as they came quicker, as if he was not quite able to get enough air into his lungs. I pressed my fingers fleetingly to his neck, delighting in the flicker of his pulse against my fingertips, so beautiful in its pace.

“Ah, you like the thought of that, don’t you?” I teased. “You like the thought of your mistress vetting you and choosing the for her playtime, her household. You are as clear to read as my own reflection in the mirror and as familiar as such too.”

He groaned and shook his head, though there was no conviction in the motion. His forehead shone, nervous sweat glistening on his skin.

“If you do not wish for my collar, we may have one night together and go on our way,” I continued, stepping back to observe my work. “One night of pleasure and one night to remember.”

I shrugged, fingers on his blindfold, slipping it from his face.

“I shall have many more to try, if you fail like those gone before you.”

He blinked, adjusting to the dimmer light of my playroom after his own world of darkness. And what he saw made him reel, eyes widening in shock. His cock throbbed, a drop of pre cum gleaming at the tip. I saw it. He had eyes for too much else to take note of the condition of his own body.

My playroom was a masterpiece. Clad in black and red – traditional and cliché, I know, but it was my room to design as I wanted it, precisely so – it contained every manner of play equipment that I had, so far, been able to source. A cross stood on one side of the room, proudly dangling manacles – lockable, of course. Opposite was a long shelf that ran the full length of the room, filled with dildos of varying shapes and sizes, organised by size and girth. I was precise in my organisation, I had been told, but who wanted to hunt through chests and boxes in the middle of a play session? At least I knew where everything was.

A polished oak spanking bench stood a few paces before my partner and he eyed it hungrily, eyes drinking in the sheen of the gleaming wood. A paddle lay beside it, on one of the knee rests, just in case I wanted to reach for it quickly. It had come in useful many times and it did make such a beautiful noise as it whistled through the air, only the highest quality and the largest price tag for my collection. The crack spoke of even higher figures, the finest craftsmanship money could buy as it turned a submissive boy’s backside black and blue for days on end.

I took a moment to survey my collection, not without a subtle murmur of shared pleasure. Money certainly did buy me some happiness. Though not all of it. Some happiness could only come from companionship. Yet it had to be the right kind of companionship and, truly, there were so many different kinds, for me, that could not be satisfied by laughter and friendship.

I sighed, hiding the rise and fall of my breasts from him. Would he be the one I'd been looking for all this time? He gulped, eyes on my wall of whips, every implement that I could lay my hands on proudly displayed for my play partners to see. I murmured appreciatively. He was certainly heading in the right direction, that much was sure.

"I see something has caught your attention."

I paced to the wall, casting my gaze over the myriad of whips that seemed to have commanded his attention.

"Was it this one? Or this, perhaps?" I rested my hand on a short cane, usually used for showing horses. "This does make a wonderful crack when it hits. I don't need to put my full arm into it either, though it raises welts for days."

I smirked powerfully, memory lacing my smile.

"My last boy, the last one I used this one..." I took it from the wall and ran my fingers over it, enjoying the feel of stretched leather over the implement, so innocent yet vicious. "Well, let me simply say that he did not sit down properly for days afterwards. He told me so. And sent me the photos to prove it."

He balked, taking a step back as the chain clinked above his head. I grinned, teeth flashing white.

"It shall make an excellent first implement for you. I do hope you enjoy how it sings."

Tapping the cane against my palm, I selected two more, hiding them behind my back and placing them carefully out of his line of sight as I joined him once again. He gulped visibly and shook his head, though did not allow a word to pass his lips.

"Such beauty in how you hold yourself," I murmured, placing the tip of the cane beneath his cock, which had not softened even a little. "You want this."

I met his gaze.

"Remember your safe word, little one."

He struggled, eyes wide, as I stood behind him and brought my arm back, not allowing him any build up or warning. The crack of it on his skin would be build up enough as I brought a red flush to his buttocks.

I chuckled wickedly as I brought it down, loving my laugh as much as the almighty crack that resounded through the room. He shrieked, shooting up on to his toes as the blow landed, anticipating the pain before it had actually struck. When it registered, his eyes bulged and he danced from foot to foot, a howl ripping itself from his lips. I did not pause – letting the pain set in and linger would be worse – and brought the cane down twice more in quick succession, scoring two more red lines across his muscled backside.

Squealing like an animal, he bounced back and forth, swinging and yelling when the chain caught his weight, feet scraping for balance that would not come. I shook my head. I hadn't even hit that hard. Was it really his first time tasting the lick of an impact tool on his rear? Surely not. Maybe my hand was different to those he'd experienced before?

Whimpering pathetically – even I thought so, though it sent a shiver down my spine – he dropped his head, something falling from his eye to the floor. I stiffened. Tears? He was crying?

How disappointing.

“Do you need to stop?” I frowned, passing the whip to my other hand. “Are you going to displease me so swiftly?”

I faked a sigh, though he would not have known that it was anything but genuine.

“What a pity. And I had such high hopes...”

“No! Mistress!”

He craned his head about, shifting from foot to foot as the chain took more of his weight, shoulders twisting around. His eyes were wild, moisture glistening in the corners, as his dark hair clung to the back of his neck, slick with sweat.

“I don't want to stop, Mistress – please!” He ground his teeth together, jaw working. “I can do this! I don't want to use my safe word!”

“So, what are you saying...boy?” I pressed, running the cane over the rising welts I'd created – he winced. “Is this what you want? Is this what you need? Far more than getting a woman on all fours and fucking her, as you so crudely put it to me?”

He hung his head.

“I'm sorry, Mistress, I was wrong.” He screwed up his face as if it pained him to let the words pass his lips. “I was wrong, I was thinking of myself...” He stared at the floor, unblinking. “I wasn't thinking of you when that's all I should have been thinking of. I'm sorry, Mistress.”

I cupped his chin gently, but did not make him look me in the eyes, letting him devour my body with his gaze instead – a small reward for good behaviour.

“Then you shall please me further, boy. But your breaking has only just begun.”

I cracked the cane on his arse again, laughing at his shriek. I could rest sure in my heart that he knew he could stop it at any point, but his determination to keep going raised my respect for him. He wanted to please me, even if he was clearly unused to my level of pain. That, above all else, showed that he wanted to please me. And I liked that.

Only when I had covered his backside in a series of thick welts and his chest heaved did I put the cane aside, letting it clatter to the floor. He'd tidy them up later for me, so I did not have to think to be careful there. He dragged his head around, exhaustion lining his body after only a few minutes of beating. But pain would do that to a person. His cock had softened, but, at the release of pain, swelled with blood once more, eyes shining with what I liked to think was a growing devotion to me and me alone.

"This one..." I smiled, selecting my next whip. "This one is my favourite."

I held it up for him, a riding crop clasped between a thumb and finger. The black length thrummed as he sucked in a breath, eyes wide and starting. The triangular flap on the end would not be as vicious as the cane, but he was not to know that.

"Try to scream for me again, won't you?" I winked. "I did so love that sound. It was most pleasing to me, little one."

He tensed before the whip touched his skin and I whipped it back, arm further away from his body than it had needed to be for the cane. I cracked it across each cheek – one each – and smiled at his shriek, gritting his teeth to cut it off as if he did not actually want me to hear him cry out so. Perhaps he did not want me to think him weak? I liked that thought too. That thought made the heat in my crotch grow, dampness sliding over my thong – my favourite latex one. It would be gleaming with my own arousal by the time we were good and done in the playroom.

Taking the crop more easily than he had the cane – better to start with a harsh one to let them know what they were really up against, really – he held his breath through a flurry of strokes, legs trembling. He spread his feet apart for balance and closed his eyes, holding himself firm through the strokes even as they came down on his existing welts. Though he shuddered forward, he did not collapse into the chains again, sweat rolling down his back from the base of his neck and shoulder blades.

But I couldn't allow him to become too used to the strokes and, well, a mistress had her ways to keep a submissive on their toes, it had to be said. Cracking the whip down on the worst of his welts, I fed fresh fire to his existing pain, coaxing a howl from his lips as he pushed back up on to his toes. Even as his body strove to dance away from my touch, I grabbed his hip and forced him back into place, swinging the crop up with, thankfully for him, less force. It sailed up and between his legs to tap into his balls, a square strike with the flap at the tip of the crop.

Although the blow was lighter – far lighter than the strikes I'd been raining down on his backside – he shot up and into the chains. They caught and pulled him back as he sucked in breath, only to be expelled a moment later in the most beautiful of screams. Chuckling, I released him, allowing him to find his own footing again, but not without a second tap to his precious orbs, lighter this time. He squealed just as beautifully and danced, trying to close his legs but finding that he could not shudder away from the pain while keeping his nuts suitably protected.

It was a vicious choice and he played it out wonderfully for me as I teasingly struck his arse throughout it all, reminding him exactly who was in control. Whenever he thought he had the upper hand, he never would: it would always, irrevocably, be me, above all else.

“You are beautiful,” I whispered, knowing my words would carry.

He groaned and let his weight fall into the chains, legs trembling. I ran the whip softly over my palm, a gentler kiss than the ones I’d given him. It was time for the finale, at least for what I had planned to get my boy in line.

The bullwhip was my final toy, though it was difficult to see it as something sexual when one considered the raw power behind it. The well oiled and maintained leather slid between my fingers as I played with the five foot length, holding back my moan. Just touching it made me wetter behind the thighs, though that pleasure would soon come – I only had to be patient. It was always better to wait, after all, to wind myself up tighter and tighter until I was as taut as possible, body balanced on the pinnacle of release before I’d even touched my clit.

Whipping made me a sadist yet it was my boys that made me love it so.

“Remember your safe word, boy.”

His head shot around as I brought my arm up in front of me, taking a step back to allow the whip room to sail out to its full length. Flicking it back, I pulled power into the leather and cracked it out, tip scoring a line across his upper back.

Perfect.

He squealed, though the pain, I knew, was more of a sting than a deeper burn. Yet I could be confident that he had never been whipped there, much less anywhere for any extended period of time. To my interest, his cock did not soften this time, but hardened, dripping more and more pre cum. Licking my lips, I ached to scoop it onto my finger and press it into his mouth, forcing him to taste the essence of himself.

“Please, Mistress...” He whispered hoarsely, shoulders pulled back. “Please...no more...”

“Are you using your safe word?”

He shut his mouth, eyes closed, and said no more. That was all I needed to know.

The bullwhip sang out, tip cracking, but I only played it an inch from his buttocks, making him jump. Sometimes the anticipation of a hit was as potent as the strike itself – far more so than the fear of a cane or crop could ever have been. I layered the whip lovingly over his back and buttocks, watching the red lines grow and grow until he was criss-crossed with them. Every time the time lanced over a welt, he squealed and jumped, bouncing until the pain subsided until the slow, dull throb that I wagered he was becoming used to, bit by bit. There would only be more if he ever did become completely used to it.

I smiled. Already my boy craved all I had to give. When my next stroke with the bullwhip did not come immediately, he pushed his buttocks back, muscles shuddering. I rewarded him for that by allowing the tip of the whip to wrap around the side of his hip as it hit, speeding up as the body of it made impact before the tip. He sucked in a breath and gasped, eyes wide. Sweat dripped off his arms and back, droplets of it flying off the whip as I sent it out again and again, drawing him to the very limit of what his body was able to endure.

On the hardest strikes, his cock softened, but always came back to full mast when I let off, much to my pleasure. But there was only so much a boy could take and mine was tired, oh so very tired, after his first taste of my whip and bite of pain.

Tossing the bullwhip aside – I missed the feel of its handle seated in my palm already – I pressed the length of my body against his back. Rather than leaning into my breasts, as he might have done upon first arriving in my home, he groaned and stood perfectly still, trembling as I explored his body with my hands and drew a fresh rise of pain from his bruises and welts. He cried out softly, barely enough breath left in his lungs to voice complaint, and submitted to my touch.

“That was your punishment for displeasing me, boy,” I whispered, breath tickling his ear. “I’d say that you’re never going to do it again, not if you receive this treatment, but there’s a part of you that loves this, isn’t there? You want pain. You crave it. You need it.”

He whimpered and shook his head, eyes cast down to the floor. But I knew the truth.

“Expect me to find another punishment if you displease me again. I need not use my single arrow from my quiver over and over again with whoever I take. Do you understand that?”

Nodding quickly, he barked an answer, eyes wide and strained.

“Yes, Mistress!”

“Excellent.”

Reaching around his stomach, I wrapped my fingers around his shaft, smiling at the weight of it pressing down on my palm. He wouldn’t have won any size contests, that was for sure, but it was a good size, a size that pleased me and large enough that I could wrap my fingers around it and touch them on either side. This time he did push into my touch, hips jerking up of their own accord as I pumped my hand along his length.

“Do you think you’ve earned this?” I hissed through my teeth, stroking his cock with the lightest of touches. “Do you think you’ve earned the right to cum in my presence?”

Pleasure mingled with pain and he twisted back and forth, body at my whim to do with as I pleased, completely and utterly. But I was waiting for an answer and pulled my hand from his cock, letting him buck and thrust into midair, with no further stimulation forthcoming. Howling, he shook his head, dark hair flying where it had not stuck to his skin.

“No, Mistress!” He yelped, words seeming thick and heavy to force out of his mouth. “I haven’t earned it! I haven’t earned the right to cum with you, I haven’t!”

He stopped trying to thrust, forcing his hips still as he pressed his feet flat to the floor. A new determination entered his eyes as I pushed my chin over his shoulder – I could do with him as I wanted, after all, and his space was mine to invade – studying him.

“I am yours to do with as you will,” he said after a long pause that stretched out and out and out, drawing in a shuddering breath. “But I don’t need to tell you that. You know it already. You just want to make me say it. You want to hear it...from me.”

I smiled.

“Then you understand, little one.”

I pushed away, unlocking the cuffs holding his wrists up to the chain with a deft flick of my fingers. He swayed and crumpled to the floor, knees hitting the hard surface first as he worked out the soreness from his arms. Looking down at his cock, he moved as if to touch it, but steadied himself, letting his hands fall back to his sides.

Good boy.

I smiled and he blinked, hope brightening his features and overshadowing the flicker of doubt there. Poor boy. Good boy. He’d done well, for his first time. I hadn’t even beaten him for very long, truth be told. Yet there would be no release for him, not this time. Myself, on the other hand...

He spread his knees, trying to keep his buttocks off his legs as I stalked him, one hand grasping his hair. I had not paid too much attention to my attire for the evening – anything would have been spectacular, I was sure – but a corset and latex thong combination did come in very useful. The corset didn’t even need to be laced particularly tightly for the effect I desired. And the desire in his eyes brought fresh fire to mine. I licked my lips.

“Now, little one...”

I lifted my leg, slipping it over his shoulder to bring my pussy up to his face. My latex thong was easily tugged aside to press my slick pussy lips to his face. He groaned, trembling closer as he parted his lips, hesitating in the moment. He looked up me, eyes wide and pleading, wordlessly asking for permission to take what he so desperately wanted. I smiled and nodded, grabbing a handful of his hair to drag him in closer.

“It is time for you to make good on your contract.”

Inhaling sharply, he looked up at me, squirming as he sat too far back, pressing on his abused rear. Whimpering, he shot up and pushed his face into my pussy, sucking in my scent in greedy, short breaths, tongue flicking out the same time I gave the breathless command that would begin the rest of our night together.

“Lick.”