

Sandy

Hi. My name is Sandy. Short for Sandra, that is, if you must know, but no one besides my Mam ever called me by that name, sometimes teachers. I'm not even sure the teachers knew my full name – they were lazy like that. School was not the best for me. As a hyena, striped, I was an 'exotic', something unusual amongst the native British species and all manner canines. Others stared, wondering what I was. I had always lived in the United Kingdom, though my parents emigrated, the spotted and striped duo. They wanted the best for me and the best life was not in Africa.

I'm out of school now, started college, hit my eighteenth birthday, the big she-bang. In the first year of college, I cut my black hair right up to my ears and started wearing golden hoop earrings. Gave my parents a right scare. They didn't know what to think. It was a change, it was my change. Friends clustered around me in college, flocking to me like starlings. It was only later that I discovered that the extent of their friendship was woefully short. Like migratory birds, they flocked to warm weather: fair weather friends, as the saying goes. As far as I was aware at the time, all was well, all was fine and all was sunny. I was moving forward in life, had excellent GCSEs and was on track for top-quality A-Level results. I would go to university in London, I had already decided. I would succeed.

Three days after my eighteenth birthday between the time of eleven-twenty and eleven thirty-six at night, I was raped. My friends took me out to a club, nothing special, nothing dodgy. It was in as safe a part of town as any. We were not fools when it came to going out, or at least I wasn't. I was cautious. I was safe. I was as wary as my brethren. It was a lad I knew that did it, a tall husky with a cocky smile. One for the ladies, I would never have thought he was the type. But it was hard to believe that he would never harm another fur when he had me pinned to the wall behind the rubbish bins, slimy cock pounding into me. He took his pleasure and left me in a crumpled heap in that alley by the club, his seed trickling out of my slit. Filthy. He even sauntered as he walked away. Whore. David did not care.

Now the cub of my rapist grows in my belly.

Here is my story.

*