

Inspiration ('Trigger')

Story about a person at work listening to coworkers talk about suicide and depression. The main character is depressed and feels isolated. He listens intently.

They have a very negative view of depression. A co-workers son-in-law is depressed and they say he should live for his wife and two kids. Main char is being treated for depression and feeling good about progress before this incident.

Cover art: work desk, laptop, normal paperwork, phone and prescription for sertraline.

May I share a moment with you?

Moments

Laughing in darkness at jokes untold
Watching another story simply unfold
~~Picture dancing, chapters alive~~

Hold me together for I am unable apart
Truth upon truth, you have my heart

~~Dreaming under stars where life~~

Walking ~~in~~ through the bright, stark contrast
Living every day as though it's the last
Yet never quite so, always one more
Waiting for me to knock on the door

Kept me going, led me to smile
You wouldn't have thought it had been a while
No regrets for you, only these words:
May I share a moment with you?
