

Squats

The call of metal on metal rang through the gym as the late evening crowd worked muscle until it tore. Though small, the gym hosted a dedicated clientele of bodybuilders and powerlifters, amongst those simply trying to maintain a healthy lifestyle with plenty of iron in their diet. To the most hardened of lifters, the gym floor could not be denied its blood and sweat, huffs and groans reverberating to rival sins committed within bedroom walls. Fibres repairing themselves over the next few days would derive larger and stronger fibres, muscle building during the period of rest, and it was that goal that kept many a gym-goer addicted to their sport of choice.

A common pair worked together in the power cage and the wolf, Si, stood with his knees locked, a laden barbell across the back of his shoulders. Bare of shirt, his grey fur stuck to skin in the unflattering light, shorts reaching the midpoint of his thighs. There was little need to wear more clothing than that in their kind of gym – it only got in the way of lifts when fur was usually enough protection. The wolf's paws steadied the bar as his partner, a larger, heftier brown bear that he had known for too many years, stood behind, paws a few inches from the barbell to support if at all needed. It was not the easiest of tasks to spot another fur during squats but some found it motivational, so to speak, particularly if the correct form thrust their rumps back against their spotter's crotch.

Mike's brow furrowed as he sank lower, following the wolf's motion as the lupine sank into a squat, muscles screaming for mercy. Grinding his teeth together, Si's knees nipped in at the bottom of the lift and the bear growled warningly, lupine ears flicking back just the once. One warning did the trick and with a grunt he rose out of the squat, completing the tenth and final rep of his set.

He stepped forward and set the bar down on the hooks, groaning as the strain across his shoulders was removed. A line ran horizontally through his fur where the bar had compressed it and the bear rubbed his thumbs over the imprint soothingly, assisting Si wherever possible. Tail wagging, the wolf arched and pushed his shoulders back into Mike's touch, sharp blue eyes half-lidded with pleasure and endorphins.

They could not deny each other their little addictions, as illicit as the pleasure may be.

Straightening, the wolf rolled his shoulders, working out the kinks as a couple of other gym patrons made use of the half-racks for bench and overhead presses respectively.

"What's next on your routine?" He panted, sweat trickling down his brow. "Don't want to slow down. Change the plates?"

The bear rolled his eyes and nudged Si from the rack with his shoulder. He wore more than the wolf with a simple black t-shirt and pair of grey jogging bottoms, though both kept their hind paws bare for lifting and greater stability. Rubbing his muzzle, he smirked at his friend as he removed the coloured weight plates from each end of the barbell, clamps clattering to the matted floor until they were needed again.

Fiddling with his paws, the wolf resisted the urge to fold his arms across like chest like a stroppy cub or sulking girlfriend. They did so like to wind each other up but he preferred to give rather than take when it came to word play.

“Mike!” The wolf growled, tail tucked down. “Are you even listening to me?”

In his own time, the bear, Mike, turned to face him, brown eyes wide and innocent. His black nose quivered as if he was trying to hold back laughter and he held up his paws innocently, palms facing upward.

“Always in a hurry, you wolves,” he quipped, replacing the removed plates with ones of his choosing. “You’d think you lot would slow down once in a while, take it easier. Break between sets to let yourself recover. It’s the same for both of us, you know, Si.”

Si grinned and wagged his tail, rubbing the sweat from his bare chest with the aid of his gym towel, which smelled decidedly ripe. The wolf wrinkled his muzzle, smile vanishing. He would have to remember to wash it when he was home but somehow the task always seemed to slip by him. Laundry never seemed that important even when the pile swelled into an alternate, devouring life form.

Eyeing the barbell sceptically, Simon – Si for short – took note of how much weight the bear was loading up, which was a great deal more than he was able to squat for ten repetitions.

“Are you sure you can do that?” He asked, doubt ringing through his tone. “Looks like rather a lot.”

The brown bear scoffed and waved his paw dismissively, brushing excess chalk off his paws over the larger curve of his stomach. Despite being a frequent sight in the gym, Mike boasted a lifter’s gut with masculine pride. It was a badge of honour, in his eyes.

“Just because you’re going for shape and looks doesn’t mean that those with strength to share should lift lighter,” he said. “What were you using? One hundred kilos?”

Si’s lips pressed together.

“More than that.” He stubbornly refused to reveal specific numbers when the bear’s were higher. “Does it matter? You don’t have the quads I do.”

As if to demonstrate his physique, he faced his friend muzzle on, tensing his legs so that the muscle stood out proudly in a firm curve that could never be mistaken as fat. Muscle on the front of the thigh was more difficult to build, but Si had worked on it over several years; he had every reason to be proud of his physique. Besides his thighs and calves, his six pack was not one of the alcoholic variety and his arms rippled with muscle, back tapering down to a perfect, masculine V-shape.

Licking his black lips, Mike enjoyed the show.

“Nope, can’t say I do have your thighs after all,” he grinned. “Maybe in bed but nope, you got me

Si huffed and turned his muzzle away, though the blush beneath his fur could not be hidden from one who knew him so well.

“Perv.”

“Aw, darling.”

The bear held a paw to his forehead as if he was mortally offended, his eyes wide and suddenly girlish.

“It’s almost as if it’s a bad thing that you think I’m a pervert.”

Studying Si, Mike rocked back on his heels, eyes flicking between the loaded barbell and the wolf, calculating something that only he could discern in the confines of his mind. He licked his lips and bobbed his muzzle, seeming to come to a decision at the very moment the wolf moved towards the rack of weight plates, ready to continue.

“You done yet?”

“What?” Si shook his head. “Not by half. Why?”

“Cause I think we’re done here,” Mike retorted sternly, peering down his snout at Si as the wolf half-bent to pick up a fifteen kilo plate.

Freezing, the wolf’s ears drooped submissively, though he ground his teeth together and tried to keep them pricked. The bear had too much of an idea already of the effect he had on him, if what they had done in the bedroom the previous night was not evidence enough. Shivering, he tucked his tail down to his rump and tried not to feel the ache under his tail, still sore even after the wear and tear of the day at work. He tried not to remember hot breath on his neck and the pleasure-pain of the bear’s teeth sinking into his shoulder in a mating bite. Where the cuts would heal, the wolf bore the marks beneath his fur, proud scars never truly fading into non-existence.

He sighed and looked away, only the very tip of his tail wagging, the grey slashed through with black hairs. There was never much point in forgetting, not with Mike around to remind him.

As if knowing exactly what the wolf was thinking, the bear’s lips twitched in a smirk and he jerked his muzzle up and back, gesturing over his shoulder. The bulge in his jogging bottoms, easy enough to avert the eye from thus far, swelled, cock pushing out of its sheath into the fabric. Gulping, Si wagered the bear had gone without underwear that day. Catching the wolf’s eye, Mike trailed his fingers suggestively over the bulge and Si’s throat worked, recalling how quickly he had had to swallow before to gulp down every drop of cum the bear dumped into his muzzle.

The salty taste was an addiction in itself.

Mike chuckled, lips parting ever so briefly in the exhalation of breath. He looked back at Si over his shoulder, eyes half-lidded with barely concealed desire. What reason did he have to pretend when such a willing pup was practically whimpering at his paws? He had the wolf wrapped around his little finger and, by god, did he know it!

“Shut up and meet me in the showers, if you have nothing better to do, stud-wolf.”

Si raised an eyebrow, blood roaring in his ears. Could the bear be any more obvious? As the bear walked away, he stood rooted in place, the tail of his tail flicking from side to side, though from agitation or arousal, no one could say.

“Thought you had some work left to do here?”

The wolf grasped at straws that he did not truly want to clutch, to draw himself away from the bear’s dominant mental hold. Oh, how much easier it would be to fold to his knees and look up at his dom, let the bear have his way with him. But public? The thought made his heart thud as much as his legs trembled.

“All work and no play leads to a very dull day,” the bear recited solemnly, stubby tail stubbornly still twitching in the only indication of his excitement.

“And what about other people in the gym, hm?” Si asked, ears flicking back and forward again as if to catch each and every little sound in the echoing rooms.

Mike shrugged.

“You best put on a good show for them then, if anyone’s left around, pup.”

Walking away on light paws, the bear skipped out on his workout of the evening. He would catch up on the weekend and, hey, it was not as if he had not gone to the gym anyway. He grinned as he paused by the lockers, dragging his towel and spare clothes from the metal container, chilled from their stay. He was just going to complete his workout with a very different activity.

The shower cubicles were private, designed to fit one fur at a time, and Mike stepped over the cool tiles with a sigh of relief, kicking off his shoes before entering the shower cubicle itself. He pushed the door closed behind him without locking it and stripped off his jogging bottoms and t-shirt, slinging them back over the top of the door. They may get damp in such close proximity to the shower but he did not care to pop back outside to stow them more safely in his bag. He turned on the shower and doused himself in hot water, flattening his brown fur to his skin.

Mike turned his muzzle up into the stream and sighed in momentary relief, lifting his paws to rub his muzzle clean of sweat. Despite the shorter workout of the day – less than five sets! – he still ached from the week. A day off would do him good, he could catch up on Sunday. The bear smirked. With Si.

Another fur entered the shower room behind him and the bear gave a lopsided smile. The wolf pressed his back to the inside of the shower door with his ears splayed, cheeks flushed with heat. He tilted his muzzle up defiantly, rump squashed firmly to the door as if he was afraid of getting too close to the bear. He looked from side to side, assessing the confines of their private suite as spray from the shower dampened his clothes. Belatedly, he wished he had taken them off. He had an inkling, however, that he would not be even half dressed for much longer.

“Hey.”

The bear's gaze smouldered.

"Hey," Si muttered in return, averting his eyes.

Mike chuckled throatily and faced the wolf square on, challenging him with the bulk of his body, muscle as dominant as fat. It was a difference between power lifters and body builders that was difficult to deny in the bare fur. His belly swelled with a muscle gut and, just below, his flesh coloured cock eased from its sheath, pushing from the flap of skin into view. Arrogant in its display, Mike indicated towards the needy length with a casual twitch of his muzzle; he needed no more than that.

"Well, what are you waiting for?"

The wolf tilted his head to the side like the cute little puppy he truly was. Mike nearly laughed aloud, though held back his mirth just in time. It would not do to laugh, not when he wanted something from his friend with more than one benefit.

"Huh?"

The bear raised his paw.

"Get on your knees, pup."

Grasping the fur on the back of Si's head, Mike shoved him to his knees, smirking as the wolf's knees connected with the hard tiles. Though he winced, Si voiced no complaint and ducked his muzzle shyly, tail lifting in a wag over his rump. The bear dragged his muzzle in to his cock, rubbing the length of the wolf's narrower snout over his shaft. Shivering, Si whined and closed his eyes, enjoying the feel of smooth, slick skin against his fur. Unconsciously, he licked his lips, wanting it deep in his muzzle after only the slightest bit of provocation.

Si whimpered and looked up at the bear towering over him, forgetting the ache in his knees as the bear glowered down at him, fingers tightening in his scruff.

He did not have to ask what the bear wanted and parted his lips willingly – he knew Mike all too well, though every time still made his heart thud as if it was the very first time all over again. Clenching his tail hole in memory, he dove down on Mike's cock, taking it deep into his muzzle. The tip jammed into the back of his throat and the wolf jerked, paws flying up to the bear's legs as he squeezed and closed his eyes, fighting down his gag reflex. The bear chuckled without mirth: Si was always a bit over ambitious when it came to cock sucking.

It was a good trait for a slut to have.

Murring around the bear's shaft, Si bobbed his muzzle slowly, luxuriating in the taste and sensation. Rising and falling on the smooth cock, he swayed his rump from side to side, imagining how good it would feel deep inside him. He pressed his tongue to its underside, lips pursed into a tight 'O' and sucked hard, spurred on by the little thrusts the bear gave in return. He was strict in self-restraint, enjoying pleasure where it was demanded, though it had become clear throughout the course of their liaisons that the bear's body gave away more than his words ever would.

Gripping Mike's leg in an iron-clasp, the wolf whimpered around the fat length stretching his lips in a familiar strain. Oh, it had been too long since they had last had a moment together. Maybe friends with benefits would have to be something more, one day, but for now this was all they could have. It was better than nothing and the wolf forced his muzzle down far enough so that his nose pressed into Mike's damp crotch fur, the thicker tufts tickling his nose.

The bear grunted and shoved Mike's head back against the door, pinning it shut as he trapped Si in place. Hips working, he snarled under his breath, lip curling up from his teeth, and humped the wolf's muzzle as if he was fucking his tail. The long, deep strokes made Mike tremble and he reached between the bear's legs to rub and adore his heavy balls with the gentlest of touches as he submitted, allowing Mike to use his muzzle exactly as he willed. His skull pressed to the cold door and he whimpered as the bear thrust and pushed down on his head, demanding exactly the right angle for each, ruthless, driving roll of his hips.

Perfect form, of course, was a requisite to all.

Mike's chest heaved, fighting for breath the blasted wolf stole from him in his weakest of moments, legs trembling from the strain of thrusting in such a confined space. Leaning over the lupine, he arched his back unnaturally and furrowed his brow, tiring of the blowjob, as delicious as the wolf's hot muzzle could be. No, this evening he wanted something more, something much more. A simple lick and suck would not do for him this time.

"Up, pup."

Si jumped to his paws, fully submissively, and wagged his tail in as appeasing a manner as he was able, tugging the fabric back and forth across his rump. His jogging bottoms were soaked through and clinging to his legs, but he did not care. Neither did Mike. Spinning the wolf around to face the wall adjacent to another cubicle, Mike yanked down the wolf's trousers, baring his rump to his eyes as Si's tapered canine cock sprung free at last. The muscled curves of the wolf's arse made him murr in delight, running an appreciative paw over the hard tone.

"It's all those squats, bitch..."

Panting, Si pressed his cheek to the door and wagged his tail weakly, grunting as it was pulled up without ceremony. Mike ran the tips of his claws through the fur on Si's tail and smirked as the wolf shivered, his body a toy at the bear's whim. Trapping the wolf against the door with the bulk of his body, Mike grunted and ground his cock between Si's rear cheeks, letting the water and soaked fur ease his path. The tip dragged over the wolf's tail hole and he trembled, tail flipped up obediently as the bear brought his fingers to his muzzle, moistening them with his own saliva.

The wolf squirmed and peered back over his shoulder, blinking rapidly against the spray from the shower. Further away, perhaps somewhere in the weights room, a weight plate dropped to the floor with a thud. Though Si's ears flicked to the side to catch the sound, he would not have done anything even if another fur was pacing back and forth on the other side of the shower door.

“Aren’t you gonna...” He started, before pausing, a blush colouring his muzzle.

The wolf left the question open ended, hoping that his partner would take the hint in the moment, as he had done so many times before. To his dismay, Mike merely shook his head and pushed a finger deep into the pup’s tail hole, making Si arch his back, grinding his teeth together. In a mixture of pleasure and pain, the wolf pushed back on to the digit thrusting into him and moaned breathily as a second was added, curling up against his prostrate.

“Nope.”

Ignoring Si’s eyes widening, the bear pulled back his fingers and replaced them with the tip of his cock, slick with water. The wolf bit his lip hard, blood beading and bleeding into the water as he struggled to take Mike, relaxing the best he could as his poor tail hole automatically tried to push out the intruder, clenching. But the bear was not to be denied, even if he could be considerate towards his partner; he would not want to break his pup. His size aided his smooth thrust in and Mike gently guided his cock deeper until his crotch nestled in against to the wolf’s muscled rump. With the curve of his stomach resting above Si’s tail, he growled deep in his throat and clamped one paw down on top of Si’s, as if he needed further confirmation as to who was in charge.

“Oh...” Si moaned, lips parted and muzzle turned up. “You... You feel so much – ah – thicker without lube.”

“Oh really now?” Mike panted, muzzle next to the wolf’s as he slowly thrust. “Maybe we’ll have to go without a little more often then, won’t we?”

Si shuddered.

“Without?”

“Mhm.”

Mike rolled his hips languidly, power showing through every stroke into Si’s rump. He did not need to exert much strength to keep the wolf in place and relished in his own power, taking the wolf’s hot, tight hole at the pace that pleased him.

“You’ll break me.”

Si whimpered, still imagining further fucking without the assistance of the ever present tube of lubricant, an usual essential for any anal play. Mike laughed, chest rumbling, and shoved in deep in a series of rough thrusts in which he barely pulled back a couple of inches before rocking forward again with a snarl.

“Then I’ll use your muzzle, slut puppy.”

Groaning, the wolf submitted to his alpha, ducking his muzzle down against the door. Soreness emanated from his tail hole and he panted through an open muzzle as ecstasy toyed with its edge, tail twitching back and forth in restless arousal. Every thrust ground deliciously over his prostrate and he slammed his paw into the door, the pain in his fist a distraction as sensation threatened to overwhelm him. It was too much, far too much!

Si's cock throbbed, suddenly warm in the grasp of a paw larger than his. The bear chuckled throatily into his ear as he stroked, pumping Si's needy shaft in time with his thrusts. Slowly but surely, Mike's pace increased and his thrusts came with greater urgency, animalistic desire driving him towards a peak his body demanded.

"Don't cum yet, puppy," the bear growled. "Wait for me."

"Yes..."

"Yes, what?"

Si licked his lips.

"Yes, sir."

Pulling back away from the door, Mike spun Si to face the rear wall of the cubicle, shoving the wolf beneath the hot stream of water and down into a squat. The wolf yelped but obediently allowed himself to be manhandled, spreading his legs wide and staying up on his toes to give Mike the space he needed to thrust. With one paw on the wolf's shoulder, Mike grunted as he drove into Si's tight backside, ignoring the yips of pain as he forced the wolf down on his cock, tail hole straining whether he liked it or not. He would always come back for more.

Mike squeezed his paw around the wolf's dick, the shower washing away pre cum as quickly as Si could produce it. He planted his hind paws firmly on the roughed up floor – for grip when slippery, he could only assume – an thrust like a demon, using his leverage on Si's shoulder to hold the wolf's body as still as possible, subjecting him to the entirety of each and every thrust. Si gave a high-pitched whine as the paw on his cock moved more swiftly, pumping in but a blue as he was forced to the peak of climax and held there, teetering. He closed his eyes, muzzle ducking down, as he held himself back, muscles quivering as if he had hit several personal records in a single workout.

The bear snarled and pounded brutally as he roared over the edge, cock throbbing as it exploded into the wolf's rump, ropes of cum painting his passage and, finally, slickening his frantic, fervent thrusts. It was too little too late, however, as Si bet that he would be sore for days – not that he cared. He melted into the bear's arms as he was used, scrabbling his claws over the wall to retain his balance the best he could, though his calves trembled with the effort of balancing on his toes.

As he pumped a hot, creamy load into his pup's tail hole, Mike nipped the wolf's shoulder affectionately – their little signal – and Si howled as he was permitted release. He jerked his head to the side and thrust wildly into the bear's paw as hot ecstasy burned up his body, hackles raising from the sheer forcing rocking him. He was no longer in control of his muscles and they twitched with a mind of their own, cock jerking and throbbing as it painted the back wall white with cum. A smaller load than the bear's, it was nevertheless impressive, and the wolf ground back to feel Mike's softening cock in his rump and his own swollen knot pushing insistently against his partner's paw. It was a sensation he craved for every night of the rest of his life. If he could be so lucky.

Maybe...there would be something more? Dragging in breath after much needed breath, Si looked back at Mike with a tired yet inherently satisfied grin.

“Hello?”

The cubicle door swung open and crashed into Mike's back, knocking him forward on top of the wolf. They crashed to the floor, Si tucking his head to the side so that he would not slam unduly into the wall, Mike's head whipping around in alarm. A startled red fox with black tips to his ears froze in the doorway, a bottle of shampoo clutched feebly in one paw. The paw on the towel around his waist tightened on the fabric as he took a step back, eyes fixed on the action right in front of him, Mike's cock slipping in a splatter of cum from Si's hole.

The bear smirked cockily, regaining his composure. As if sensing the adversary, a challenger that would decimate him in an instant, the fox swallowed hard and took a step back, ears flicking uncertainly. There was no right thing to do in the moment. Something nudged the back side of the towel – the side against the fox's fur – and Mike's smirk grew, lips tugging up on one side.

“Get out or join in,” Mike growled, the invitational threat rumbling in the air between them.

Panting harshly, he parted his jaws in a grin that was more terrifying than encouraging, sharp teeth glinting with the showers moisture.

“I warn you though. I don't raise my tail.”