

Becoming Cat

Written by Amethyst Mare (Arian Mabe) for Latex

The young man with short blonde hair stared at the black rubber collar as if it was going to leap from the bed and bite him. It could have been innocuous enough in any other setting but the very sight of it and what it entailed brought his heart into his throat, beating like a drum, jeans uncomfortably warm on his lightly built thighs. Gulping, he adjusted the neck of his green t-shirt, casual enough, with what he hoped was a subtle gesture, something that would fly beneath her radar. A romantic weekend away in the mountains with snow falling gently outside the timber cabin window was a typical getaway of couples – who could say no to the natural skiing allure of France? – though he was more used to being the one who wooed. At the moment it seemed that the beautiful brunette sitting cross-legged on the king sized bed was courting him.

The woman's brown eyes were soft in the candlelight as she studied him, expression carefully neutral as she tugged the pink sleeves of her long-sleeved shirt down over her wrists, her matching nail polish chipped and worn. He resolved to pay for her to have a full manicure and spa treatment at the mountain resort during the course of their stay: she, after all, deserved only the very best in his eyes. He was lucky to have such a woman sitting bottomless across from him, only the sliver of underwear concealing her soft folds from his gaze.

Pursing his lips, he brushed the collar with one finger, the buckle silent. It appeared coated in the same black material (rubber, to his eye) as the circle of the collar, something more suited to an animal than a human being. But when Emily had asked him what he would wear, a giggle in her tone and a flirt on her lips, to change into anything his heart desired, it was the collar that had tumbled from his lips in a burst of spontaneity. Of course, he had not truly believed that Emily could turn him into anything he wanted. That would be silly.

“Are you sure about this?” He asked the woman, keeping his eyes lowered.

His girlfriend of two months tucked the feathered ends of her hair back behind her ear and smiled, pink lip gloss shimmering as her lips quirked up in the candlelight. He ached to have her in his arms but she kept her distance for once, arms wrapped around her torso as if she held a secret close. Shaking his head, he looked between her and the collar, unwilling to act when inaction was a far safer option in its immediacy. Emily drew her bare legs up and his eyes traced their length, already thinking of kissing his way up them, lips brushing over the thin fabric of the panties covering her pussy. He swallowed a groan and did his best to keep his attention elsewhere, though the swell of her breasts, uncontained by a bra, through her shirt proved an additional allure. She made it difficult to focus and demanded that all attention was on her simply by her presence alone.

Emily frowned and leaned forward, nudging the collar closer to him, perched on the very edge of the bed, with the tips of her fingers.

“Put it on.”

Her tone became firmer, slipping off her lips like silk. It was a tone that he could not deny and he had the collar in his hands before thought caught up with action, lifting it to his neck with trembling digits. Hesitating for but a moment before sliding it around his neck, he blushed and fumbled with the buckle, trying to fasten it at the back of his neck as it pressed down on his throat.

Taking pity on him, Emily scooted across the sheets and brought her hands to his neck, fixing the collar for him. He shivered under her touch and leaned into her, smiling faintly as her hair brushed his shoulder. There was nothing better than her touch.

“Imagine, darling,” she purred into his ear as she buckled the collar securely around his neck. “Imagine everything your heart desires...”

Closing his eyes, he uncurled his fingers, splaying his hands out flat on the padded bed spread. It could not be that difficult, surely, to allow himself to relax in her capable arms. She would look after him, whatever happened. Emily was a master of mind games in the bedroom and he had every confidence that this was all that it was. Nothing would truly change in his body – he would only believe that he had changed. The faintest glimmer of excitement fluttered in his chest and he lay back on the bed as directed by her hand on his chest, fingertips teasing over light muscle.

In his mind, he imagined Cat.

“I know what you are wishing for,” she whispered into his ear, supporting herself over his body on strong, steady arms. “You should not be so quick to fall under my spell, sweetheart.”

The man groaned and rolled his head, something twisting in his stomach. Warmth spread outwards from the pit of his belly and he arched up from the bed, hips twisting from left to right as pleasure grew, tingling over his skin as if he was being teased with a million feathers. Emily seemed very far away, her words coming to him as if he was standing facing away from her, sound waves not bouncing back to weak human ears in time for him to comprehend their meaning.

His cock stirred.

Emily kissed his lips sweetly, her chaste kiss lingering as the collar squeezed in closer to his neck, melding perfectly with his skin. As if he was growing hard with need, warmth spread through his loins and he bucked up against her body, seeking pleasure that his body was suddenly shy to divulge.

“What...” He struggled to speak, lips soft and pliable. “Wha... Mmm?”

Chuckling, Emily did not immediately answer and instead removed his shirt from his body, tugging it up and over his head with a single, deft motion. It was as if the awkwardness of bodies did not apply to her and she slid down his old jeans in like fashion, dragging them off his bare, tingling feet with a strangely sensual caress. Looking down the length of his bare body, he jumped, body shuddering up from the bed, and yelped, reaction momentarily delayed by the shock caught in his throat.

His throat tightened. There was something wrong, his skin was the wrong colour. Black raced up his legs in a sheen of the unnatural and the top of his thighs glowed yellow-orange, skin rippling as it changed without his permission. Emily pounced on top of him and wrestled his wrists to the bed above his head, forcing him to be still as the changes continued to tingle through his body, warmth licking him from head to toe as if in the care of a gentle feline.

He submitted willingly to her hold – it was not as if he wanted to escape his Emily, after all – and she grinned, putting her weight on his wrists. She dipped her head to brush her lips over his, moaning into the chaste kiss as she felt him change beneath her, magic running through his veins from her fingertips.

Sitting up, she straddled his waist and his shrinking bulge ground between her thighs, rubbing over her covered pussy. Emily's eyes gleamed. How long would it be until he noticed? Leaning forward, she rested her weight on his chest, palms flat, and arched sensually, arousal soaking through her underwear to stain his, though the male evidence may as well have not been there for all the dominance it displayed. Helplessly, he wriggled and mewled, hips arching up to meet hers for pleasure he did not yet understand. Emily ran her hand over his chest where two mounds slowly but surely grew, the transformation patient in its entirety. The skin colour was a strange touch though.

"There is far more to me than you think, my dear," she whispered.

Emily smirked, sparkly lips gleaming dangerously. Her lip gloss should have portrayed the innocent but, in the low light, it sent a shiver of delicious anticipation down the squirming man's spine.

"I know you want to feel what it's like to be a woman."

He stilled and shook his head fervently. No! That would be silly, obscene, wrong. Of course he did not want to be a woman. Fear played icy fingers down his spine, a tap dance over straining lungs. How had Emily known?

Giggling, Emily straightened and cupped her breasts, dropping her eyes pointedly to the rising flesh on his chest, too large now to be ignored. The man could no longer be called a man and his heart leapt into his mouth, thudding wildly as he gaped. This was no mind game, no trick of the senses! What was happening to him? Panic should have gripped him at that point but he instead melted into the embrace of transformation, imagining exactly how he wanted his body to look in his wildest fantasies, the ones that even Emily could not have possibly discerned.

Cat would become him. She was Cat.

Emily rose and turned her back on the transforming female on the bed

"I'm not the woman you think I am either," she explained, standing up to draw her shirt over her head, breasts falling free, tugged down by their own weight. "What would your kind call me... A witch? That fits well enough."

She laughed, a wild toss of hair flipping back over her shoulder to fall down her back in a straight curtain. Moaning and shoving a hand into her boxers, no longer needed, Cat cupped her crotch as her balls shrank up into her body, melding into soft, feminine lips. The collar squeezed comfortably around her neck and she curled the fingers of her free paw around it, holding it as she would an anchor to keep her rooted in time as her spine elongated.

Ignorant to further change, Emily bent over, showing off her flexibility as she removed her underwear and daintily kicked them aside, bare skin glowing pink. Cat hissed and rolled her head, thrusting two fingers into her pussy as it formed, feeling the tight passage suck around the digits as if striving to draw them in. Her skin turned shiny, shades of yellow and black too stark and pure to be natural for a human being; that was her wish and that was Cat, even if Emily did not know the entirety of her most secret of desires as yet.

Turning back to face the bed, Emily paused, looking Cat over with a critical eye. Cat's chest heaved, nipples perking up from a pair of gleaming breasts, milky white skin drawing the eye. Emily took a step back, gaze raking her partner's body as words stuck in her throat.

"Huh..." She muttered, taking a moment to re-evaluate the situation in an oddly calculating manner. "This wasn't quite what I expected. Had you more to tell me...than your simple wish to try out being a woman?"

Cat would have blushed if her new skin allowed her to but, as it was, she sat up on the bed, pushing herself up with two black hands, fingers white as if she wore fingerless gloves. They could not be paws per se, yet the tail sprouting from just above her buttocks was pure animal. As Emily watched, eyebrows raised, Cat moaned and shifted on to all fours, trembling as her tail grew longer and longer, face shifting rippling as flesh and bone was rearranged.

"Maybe that collar suits you even more," Emily brushed her hair out of her eyes. "Though I will say that I'm glad you did in fact decide to turn into a female. That wouldn't have been much fun for me as a lesbian otherwise."

Cat's tail swished as she stood, lips parted as she grinned. Lesbian? What was a lesbian? It was a word she knew that did not matter in the moment, not when she had her Emily before her, naked. Her skin shone and stretched with her movements, becoming latex as the collar melded her body to her own whim. Why should one not go a step further when so allowed?

"Perhaps the collar does suit me," she purred, words slipping from her rasping tongue like droplets of what. "But I can think of something that suits you better."

Emily laughed and crossed her arms over her breasts, hiding them from view.

"And what would that be?"

"This."

The transforming feline launched herself at the woman in a reckless pounce. Emily tumbled back on to the rug with a shriek and grabbed at Cat with flailing hands, seeking anything to keep herself steady. Her back hit the rug hard and she coughed, fighting to regain breath knocked from her lungs. Perched on top of her girlfriend, Cat's tail swished proudly, growing longer and longer with every breath, as if she had caught a prize.

"I don't think you can be my mistress tonight," Cat said, dipping her head so that her increasingly feline muzzle was close to Emily's face.

The woman scowled, expression darkening sulkily as she squirmed and struggled to push the larger, heavier latex creature off her stomach to no avail – she may as well have been pushing against a brick wall.

“And why not?” Her eyes narrowed. “You would not defy me.”

Cat giggled and brought her hands to her muzzle, rubbing the knuckles over where whiskers popped out, one by one.

“But I want to play.”

Arching, Cat flexed her large hind paws, wriggling her toes luxuriously against the carpet. She curled them into the fibres, moaning at the erotic sensation sending tingles through her latex skin. Emily could have her mind games; every instance of this was real.

And Cat was going to enjoy every single second of it.

Standing, Cat grasped Emily’s hands gently but firmly and drew her to her feet, towing her towards the bed. The young woman who had so thought to take advantage of her boyfriend in the snow recluse of the cabin had a different problem on her hands now as the feline thrust a paw between her thighs, fingers driving into her own pussy with the wanton push of a slut.

Insistently, Cat lay back on the bed and screwed up her muzzle with a muffled yowl as the last of her transformation completed itself, the tip of her tail growing much larger and plumper than would have been natural for any true feline. She flexed it experimentally and wrapped it around Emily’s waist, purring softly at the shiver of sensation that arose from even the faint brushing of her lover’s skin. When it came to her paws and tail, it seemed that touch was amplified erotically: exactly as she had wanted. Was there no limit to the collar’s power?

In the moment, Cat forgot that it was Emily that had changed her and pulled her partner in close, pushing her back on the bed and spreading her thighs with insistent hands. Emily had no choice but to submit herself to the feline’s attentions, though it was difficult to voice further objections when Cat’s tongue rasped over her clit, eliciting a sharp yelp from her lips. Pleasure rocketed through her body and she dug her teeth delicately into her lower lip, hair falling about her shoulders as she rolled her head back.

“Oh god...” She panted. “That tongue... My, my, you are full of surprises too...”

Cat arched on all fours, tail high in the air as she purred and dipped her muzzle, holding Emily down to the bed with a secure hand on her lower stomach, rump wiggling as she lavished attention upon the treat so presented to her. Huffing warm breath over Emily’s bare thighs, Cat ran her tongue lightly over Emily’s puffy lips, making her push up to the feline’s lips. Cat’s whiskers tickled the inside of her thighs as the feline drew back just enough to let Emily know who was in charge; she would not be forced to give pleasure tonight, only as she chose to. Smiling wickedly, Cat ripped Emily’s underwear off with a sharp yank, pain briefly flashing across Emily’s hip where the fabric cut in for a fleeting instance.

“Hey!”

“Shush,” Cat purred. “I’ll take care of you, my sweet Emily.”

She thrust her fingers gently, unsure of how much her sweetheart could take after the change – everything was so different! Even her strength! – and played the tip of her tongue over Emily’s clit, bolstered by the cries and squirms every lick drew. Her tongue rasped like a cat’s, rough enough to yield extra sensation but not harsh upon the gentler sex. Grasping the back of Cat’s head where latex tufted up in the semblance of fur at her touch, the collar willing to mould Cat even as their play heated up, Emily moaned loudly and ground her pussy into Cat’s face.

Drawing her fingers back, Cat murred and lapped the juices from each digit in turn, demonstrating the flexibility of her new tongue curling around her fingers. Emily panted in brief respite, duvet twisting and dampening with sweat. In the warmth of their bodies, a feather comforter seemed superfluous and she would have laughed if Cat had not just slipped her thumb, slickened with saliva into her tight pucker. Whimpering, Emily clung to her as two fingers drove back into her cunt and the thrusting, driving paw rocked her towards ecstasy.

Cat wriggled, juices oozing down her shiny thighs. There was no resistance from the latex and her arousal hung heavy in the air around her, a heady scent that made her narrow nostrils flare. She thrust the fingers of her free paw into her pussy and arched into her own touch, finding pleasure there that she had never experienced as a male. Would she ever want to change back? The warm collar around her throat claimed otherwise, a snug reminder of how she came to be. She would simply have to ensure that Emily would not want to change her back into a man, leaving her a latex feline forever. Cat licked her lips and lapped her lover’s clit swiftly, lavishing attention upon it in firm, quick strokes of her tongue. Her rump wiggled and Emily moaned loudly, hair tangling messily about her face. There was only so much holding back a needy latex feline could do, after all.

“Where’s your bag?”

Cat’s tail lashed and Emily blinked, confused on the brink of orgasm that sailed from her outstretched fingertips with a smile and a wave.

“What? What bag?”

Cat shook her head impatiently, eyes flashing. What a time for Emily to be slow of mind when she was always so sharp!

“Your bag!” She insisted. “You brought a bag with you. What was in it?”

“Oh...” Emily’s eyes brightened, understanding returning with a gleam of wickedness. “By the bed. I think I know what you’re after.”

Cat turned her amber eyes on her, forearms bending slightly to take more of her weight as if she was about to pounce. Emily was one for keeping toys in her ‘bag of tricks’ – that phrase suddenly held more weight now that Cat considered her as a witch – and Cat hoped that some rather special items were concealed within. Diving off the bed, she crouched on the floor and turned her head from left to right, sweeping her gaze in a quick motion around the room, feline whiskers quivering as she took in the room. She inhaled deeply, chest expanding, and her nose twitched. As an anthro feline, the world was sharper, more colourful in scents and sounds. Even the slight motion of Emily shifting on the bed made her ears stand up and swivel to better absorb the noise, analyse it without conscious thought.

Ah! Cat smiled. There it was. The bag laid hidden half under the bed, a simple black holdall that was perhaps better designed for casual gym use than a weekend getaway. Though Cat had originally argued for the use of a shared suitcase, she had, of course, been overruled by Emily, who had insisted upon the beloved bag with a white logo on the side, a slash that could have been a smile. It was easier to hide toys in the side pockets of a holdall, however, so Cat could not feel too bad that she had lost that small battle. Love, after all, was a war.

A most pleasurable war.

Crawling to the bag, Cat purred as her juices trickled down her thighs, gravity dragging them down to leave shiny marks on her latex skin. She stretched luxuriously like a feline, back terrifically arched, and moaned at the release of tension brought on by the stretch. It took her no time at all to unzip the bag and dig into the side pocket, securing her prizes in both paws with a smile that had not left her muzzle since the transformation began. Scooping out all treasures that were to be had, the feline jumped back on to the bed, making it bounce and jostle Emily. The woman lay with her head back on the pillows, hips pushed up from the bed and hand between her thighs, shoulders pressed into the duvet as her fingers worked deep into her pussy.

“These will do far better than fingers, sweetheart...”

Cat giggled and winked, though Emily was too preoccupied to see the cheeky motion. Her cheeks flushed crimson and she had her eyes closed, lips parted for breathy gasps that did not draw nearly enough air into fluttering lungs. Spreading her haul out on the duvet, Cat studied her choices with a flicking tail tip: several dildos beckoned enticingly. But it was a sweeter treat that Cat wanted to pair with the dildo, something to drive her partner to heights of ecstasy that she had never felt before.

Selecting a pink ridged dildo that was shaped like an otherworldly cock – would Emily know anything of the supernatural, Cat wondered – Cat brought it to her muzzle and ran her tongue up the length. It tasted of clean silicone with the faintest hint of feminine juices lingering, Emily’s scent and arousal clinging to it like the aroma of a fine wine. Lapping the toy all over, Cat purred, chest rumbling, and moistened it for her lover while Emily drove her fingers into her cunt with greater urgency, thumb grazing her clit. As she licked, Cat’s tail rubbed between her thighs, teasing stirrings of pleasure from her plump clit, engorged with feline need.

“Easy...” Cat panted, leaning forward to push Emily’s hand away from her crotch.

The woman moaned in complaint but her dissatisfaction was swiftly rectified by the dildo between her thighs, slick tip teasing over her pussy lips. Whimpering, Emily turned her face into the pillows and gripped the duvet with both hands. She knew exactly how big that toy was. She had planned to shove it into her boyfriend’s new cunt that night. Now it would impale her.

Cat rubbed Emily's clit as she slid the dildo inside in one, deep stroke, pushing it in right to the hilt. The tip nestled against her cervix in an intimate kiss, letting Cat know exactly how far she could thrust – there was no sense in her mixing pain with the kind of pleasure she had in mind. Emily groaned and arched up as the dildo thrust, ignorant to the needs of her partner as she begged and mumbled incoherently for more. It was a good thing that Cat knew exactly how to please her and drove the dildo in deep, the thrusting of the cock that she had never really known how to use. When people said that size doesn't matter, Cat knew they lied. She liked to be stretched.

But Cat had needs of her own too and could not devote the entirety of her attention to Emily. Growling under her breath, she spun around and swung a leg over Emily's chest, facing the woman's curled toes as she lowered her dripping sex into her partner's face. Emily stuck her tongue out without thinking as Cat ground down over her nose and tongue, hissing contently as her tail swung in an arc. She yowled, muzzle contorted into a feline expression of ecstasy as her new sex was stimulated so intimately. By gods, did Emily know how to use her tongue! Cat panted harshly and drove the dildo into Emily roughly, twisting it so the ridges ground over her g-spot, tongue lashing her clit simultaneously. The feline shivered. Being on top was different. Being in charge as Cat felt good.

Juices squelching out around the faux cock in her pussy, Emily moaned into Cat's pussy, hands gripping her thighs weakly as if to pull her back on to her face. Her strength was nowhere near enough to move Cat and the feline shuddered as her chin rubbed over Emily's crotch, the small tuft of pubic hair her still human body boasted. Emily's tongue dipped into Cat's pussy and she struggled to concentrate on her laps, collar squeezing softly around her throat as her skin tingled. On the other side of the window, Cat caught a glimpse of snow falling through the parted curtains. She yowled and one of the candle wicks dropped into the wax, hissing into oblivion in a wisp of smoke.

Rolling inevitably closer to orgasm under the skilled lap of Emily's tongue, Cat knew it was time to show Emily the full wonder of her new form. She reared her head back with an open-mouthed pant, a string of saliva briefly connecting her lips to Emily's sex. The woman mumbled into her cunt, disliking how the pleasure had ceased, but Cat only had to purr reassuringly, stroking Emily's hair with her tail to let her know that it was far from over. Ears twitching, Cat shifted on to her knees and curled the tip of her tail against Emily's hair a second time, enjoying the sensation as it set her skin on fire.

She pulled out the dildo as she fought to concentrate, losing the will to continue as planned. Emily grasped the feline's large feet in both hands and tugged on them urgently, thumbs unwittingly pressing into the soles. Cat trembled, forearms buckling, and nudged her feet back, mewling for Emily to do it again. She took the demand in good form and licked Cat's clit in small, rapid circles as she massaged the feline's feet, squeezing between the toes until Cat rumbled with restrained pleasure.

Through narrowed eyes, Cat looked down at the pink pussy before her muzzle, clit protruding from its hood. She brought her tail around to her muzzle and gave the tip the tiniest of licks, testing the sensitivity. Sensing her desire, the collar warmed, plumping out the end of her tail and making it larger and more sensitive. It was as if the slightest touch would spark off an explosive orgasm. And she would not have had it any other way.

Emily groaned wantonly into the feline's pussy, tongue grazing her softer pussy lips, still latex, hips rocking up as if to beg without words. She could not have articulated them anyway and Cat did not want to make her lover wait any longer when she had given her such an erotic experience already. Wiggling the tip of her tail against Emily's soaked pussy, Cat bared her teeth in a sharp grin framed by latex skin. The woman shrank into the bed, heart hammering against her ribcage as her stomach rolled at the size.

"What are you – ah!"

Emily began a question and was cut short as Cat carefully eased her slickened tail into her cunt, using Emily's own feminine arousal as much needed lubrication. Though larger, Cat's latex tail lubricated up beautifully and Cat closed her eyes as she wormed it deeper, feeling the hot, tight passage as keenly as if she was still a male thrusting her cock into a woman's sex. The woman squirmed and squeezed Cat's feet as the feline pushed them back into her palms, demanding attention. Driving her tail deeper, Cat yowled and shuddered bodily, lost in sensation. With the stimulation of her erogenous tail thrusting and Emily lapping her pussy the best she could, Cat had little hope of staying off orgasm for much longer. And what would that feel like?

She would soon find out. Digging her fingers into Emily's spread thighs, Cat thrust roughly with her tail and ground on to Emily's face. The feline inhaled sharply and jerked as orgasm squeezed her, juices suddenly spurting from her cunt, squirting. Losing control of her muscles, Cat ducked her head until her chin pressed against her chest, her whole body shaking as climax wracked her body from head to toe. Every touch of her feet sent sparks through her and added to the stream of electricity shocking through her, making her skin tingle as if the recipient of a direct electric shock. Not that she had ever had an electric shock. Cat rolled her head and screeched like a feline being fucked, driving her tail harder and faster as she squirted over Emily's face, orgasm rolling on and on. The woman kicked a leg up in the air as the tail inside her pussy swelled, pressing into her g-spot until ecstasy overwhelmed her.

As Cat's climax continued, Emily cried into her sex, twitching and moaning in orgasm. The woman was quieter than Cat, though her lips were still firmly pressed into the feline's pussy with only just enough space to allow her to breathe shallowly. Mumbling incoherently, Emily pushed against the tail stuffing her cunt, not needing to imagine anything more erotic to raise her needs. She had a woman, if she was of the feline variety and a fat toy ramming into her, making pleasure shake her body as a second climax rolled on from the first. Emily groaned, hands finally falling limply to her sides as exhaustion overtook her. Though the spell had not gone exactly as she had planned, she could not have imagined a better result than what the night had brought in the lonely little cabin.

Collapsing on top of her partner in an afterglow that set her chest rumbling with purrs, Cat breathed deeply, opening her eyes to find that half the candles in the room were snuffed out. She rolled to the side and on to her back, laying head to toe with Emily as a paw drifted up to caress her breast, tweaking the nipple.

"Well..." Emily panted, looking up at the ceiling. "That was...something. Very much something."

Sitting up, Cat looked down the length of her girlfriend's body, the collar tingling around her throat without squeezing in snugly this time. It was as if it simply wanted to remind her that it was there and there to be used. She squeezed her breasts with both paws and met Emily's eyes with a sly, sensual lick of her lips, long feline tongue curling out wickedly.

"Oh no," Cat murmured, shaking her head in response to Emily's proposed question. "This night is far from over."

The woman turned her head away, confusing blurring her eyes. She could not focus so quickly after orgasm but, as she recovered and flipped on to all fours, Cat thought of how that fact would work to her advantage. Emily always had more tricks in her bag but there was a chance to further turn the tables on her girlfriend. She would enjoy it, right?

Crawling over the woman, Cat dropped a quick kiss on Emily's lips and purred happily.

"Now – what else can this collar do?"