

Skinny Dipping

Written by Arian Mabe (Amethyst Mare) for The Cuddling Fox

Devyn's head reeled. Flaked out on the Queen size bed, perfectly made up with pristine white sheets that she would never have been able to keep so smooth if she had been home and not in a hotel, the grey wolf exhaled slowly, one paw on her bosom. Lightly dressed for heat she was unused to after life in Oregon, she tried to gather her bearings wearing only a loose, floating beach dress splashed with all the colours of the rainbow. Gloria said it offset her groomed fur perfectly. The wolf blushed, muzzle heating up. That had been before the fox had made her suitably un-groomed in a surprisingly short span of time.

So much had happened. The wolf rolled over on to her front, kicking her hind paws up in the air as she half-listened to the trickle of the shower in the hotel room en-suite, not quite as soundproof as their little cubicle at home. Casting her eyes around the room, furnished with light, maple furniture – a wardrobe, desk with chair, bedside tables, the usual fare of the holiday experience – she sleepily watched the gauzy curtains flicker inwards, caught by a breath of breeze on the exterior. The scene outside extended down to a Tahitian beach that Devyn could not, quite honestly, recall the name of, fine-grained sand stretching down to gently lapping waters. It would have been the perfect holiday all by itself, but things were very, very different now.

And now... Now she had a wife.

The wolf turned her muzzle into the pillows and squealed quietly, joy spilling forth. Oh! She had a wife, indeed!

Not just any wife – oh no, that would be a disservice to the beautiful, elegant, spunky vixen with fur the colour of dessert sand under the morning rays. Smiling down at the ring on her finger, Devyn spun it over the softening fur. Soon there would be a line around her finger where the ring rested, inviting its presence even when she removed it to bathe, a constant reminder of her commitment. She thought it was wonderful.

The handle to the en-suite bathroom, a good size with shower and bath separate, turned and a half-naked fennec fox adorned only with a fluffy sky blue bath towel stepped out, a smile already tickling her lips. Tucking the edge of the towel under her arm so that she would not lose it at an inopportune (or perhaps opportune) moment, her smile widened into a full-fledged grin and she wagged a fluffy tail, sandy coloured hair dripping with moisture.

“I have an idea...”

Her lover spoke in a sing-song voice, eyes dancing with mischief. Wriggling on to her side, Devyn raised an eyebrow and swallowed her smile, though it was a tall order indeed with such a stunning vixen standing before her, barely covered. The wolf licked her lips.

“Uh-oh...”

The vixen laughed, plopping herself down on the edge of the bed, mattress sinking as it supported her weight. That was not to say that the fennec was particularly large but she boasted more curves and a larger bust than the tighter, more muscled wolf, each gorgeous in their own right in each others eyes.

“It's not a bad idea!” Gloria grinned, towelling her hair as her eyes wandered, Devyn's dress leaving little to the imagination as it draped over her lean, strong form. “Just something I know you've never done before, not ever.”

“Oh?” Devyn sat up, ears pricked. “What is it? What haven't I done?”

The fennec paused for effect, drawing a line through the air with the palm of her paw as if to denote a great event.

“Skinny dipping!”

Devyn gulped and instinctively covered herself with her paws, crossing her arms over her chest, much to Gloria's disappointment. Naked...in public? Her eyes widened sharply and the fox feared for a brief moment that they would pop out of the wolf's skull entirely and not because she was looking at her naked partner.

“I'm not so sure about that...” The wolf's ears flicked back. “I go around in that tighter fitting gym gear and stuff now but...what if someone sees us? That's a lot worse than wearing a bikini to go swimming!” She blushed. “The...important bits are covered up then. Kind of.” Her blush deepened. “Mostly.”

The fox scooted closer to the wolf and bopped her shoulder with her nose, a cheeky if understanding glint brightening her eyes.

“Come on...” She coaxed, wrapping her arms around the wolf. “It'll be fun. Don't worry about it. No one's going to catch us out here, we'll go to that nice, secluded bay, take the rental car out for a spin. It'll be wonderful, just you and me.”

Devyn rolled her eyes and rubbed the top side of her muzzle, lips twitching.

“That's what you said on our first date.”

“What do you mean?”

The wolf brushed her fur back from her muzzle.

“You said it would be fun to go paintballing, even though it wasn't my thing,” she said. “I ended up loving it, even if that sounds terribly boring and simplistic now that I say it aloud.”

Grimacing, she rubbed the back of her neck and ploughed on regardless of the flicker of embarrassment – why couldn't she just get her words right? - a determined, steely edge to her tone. She was vaguely aware, not without a glimmer of pride, that she would have retreated into herself a few years ago, back when she did not know the fox. But not any more. That was then and this was now. She had learned. The wolf smiled genuinely, ears perking up. She was strong.

“You've got me doing more new things than I ever thought was possible, Gloria,” the wolf chuckled, shaking her head, eyes wide. “So what's one more thing to add to that list?”

The fennec clapped her paws together and jumped off the bed, pulling her lover up with her, a whirlwind of energy about to burst at the seams. Curtain buffeted by the breeze, the two spun in a circle, Devyn laughing as her hair whipped about her muzzle, already a mess that she could not find in herself to care one drop about.

“You'll love it!”

Grabbing her wife's paw, the fennec fox bounced from hind paw to paw, excitement thrumming through her as nervous energy. In a whirlwind of sudden activity, much too much for the tired wolf after a day of sightseeing and relaxing in the sun – it was exhausting stuff, she'd have you know! – Gloria threw on her clothes with no care for colour or co-ordination. Indeed, her summery yellow t-shirt clashed terribly with the green skirt, though she would not pause to choose something more suitable for all of Devyn's giggles and admittedly half-hearted begging. What was clothing anyway? From the looks of it, they wouldn't be wearing very much for long. With a cubbish squeal Gloria latched on to Devyn's paw and dragged her from the room, hardly sparing a moment to stop and lock it behind them.

“Whoa!” Devyn yelped as she was towed bodily along, half-digging in her heels and resisting with the tensing of muscle before realising a heartbeat later that there was nothing else she needed in the room anyway – an old flutter of worry. “You're keen!”

“What?” Gloria flashed her a grin. “Am I wearing you out already, my darling wife?”

“No more than usual, sweet vixen.”

Paw in paw and giggling like schoolgirls behind the teacher's back, the pair skipped their way down to the beach, a secluded location but for the hotel overlooking. In a few years time, it would likely become a tourist hotspot, drawing in more furs than the sands could contain, but, for the time being, it was their own little slice of paradise. The boardwalk was devoid of any other furies with not even other young couples making their way out into the cooler evening to dip their toes into the water. Pattering over the boards in her sandals, Devyn's grey tail wagged at the open space, thankful for the lack of crowds and room to breathe. Going on their honeymoon in the off-season to such a location had been a stroke of genius. Exactly what the two of them needed.

Warm air licking her fur, Gloria closed her eyes and inhaled deeply, curling her bare toes into the white sand. The simmering sunset cast a crimson hue over the late evening sky, tinting the few clouds a devilish red-pink, depending on how the light caught them, so much higher than the two solitary forms on the beach staring up at them.

“Isn't it beautiful?”

Devyn nodded, words falling short on her lips. There were no words that could match up to the ocean sparkling before her or the elegance of the vixen as enthralled by its splendour as she was.

They would have to make more visits to the ocean.

Taking Devyn's paw, for it would have been a step too far for any self-respecting fur to disrobe in plain view of the hotel they were residing in, Gloria towed her down the beach, leading the way. She did not often lead the way these days and it was pleasant to step ahead of her partner for a time, only to lead them on another adventure, always together. The wolf's eyes darted between the white sands and playful water's edge, the soft nuance of the waves more enticing than she could have imagined. Although they had snorkelled and played in the waves, skinny dipping was another matter entirely – a true first. Holding her breath, she allowed Gloria to take her behind an outcrop of rock, hind paws shifting sand as they left the hotel behind, lush vegetation sweeping right down to the sands. The island was on the wilder side and, beyond the scrap of civilisation, there was little to remind the two that anyone else resided within walking distance.

Devyn exhaled softly, heart pounding. It was perfect.

“Well...” Gloria licked her lips, ears slipping back as her muzzle took on a sultry, wicked look, eyes smouldering. “Isn't it time you lost that dress?”

At any other time in the past, Devyn could have imagined clutching the dress to her body and refusing to even go near the water. Who knew what could be in there? And nude? Out of the question! But she was different now. The wolfess had grown in more ways than one. Sparing a wink for her sweetheart, the wolf drew her dress up and over her head, draping it over the rocky outcrop to keep it from the sand as she stood in only underwear and sandals. Her white, lace undergarments made her the picture of the bride on her honeymoon and it was all the fennec fox could do to not lay her back on the sand and push her muzzle between the wolf's strong thighs.

Licking her lips, Gloria whined, tail wagging.

“You're getting bolder...” she said, tugging her own t-shirt up and over her head to reveal her breasts, wearing no brassiere underneath. “Bolder than me. But not by far, sweetheart, not by far.”

Devyn chuckled, reaching back to unclasp her bra as she tilted her muzzle down, peering up through her eyelashes.

“You'll have to keep up.”

Flicking her tail, Devyn caught Gloria across belly and the vixen giggled at the tickling fluff, half-stepping away to shimmy out of her skirt.

“Are you sure no one will see us hear though?”

“It's deserted,” Gloria confirmed. “Once we're in the water, we'll be able to stay there if anyone does appear, though that's so unlikely I wouldn't even think of it. Put it from your mind, love.” She paused, brushing the fur flat on her muzzle as if to conceal a blush beneath her paw. “This night is just for you and me alone.”

Devyn cocked her muzzle, ears pricked as she shimmied out of her underwear – bra tossed over her dress – to better match the fennec fox's quicker state of undress. Already topless, Gloria stepped out of her skirt, giggling as it caught on her hind paw and she had to hop off-balance, bumping into Devyn, before she could get it untangled again, leaving her in the glory of her fur alone. The wolf chuckled, a genuine laugh burbling up from her throat. A few cocktails never did them any harm!

Meeting, Devyn's eyes, the fox clapped her paws together and turned to the water, only a few paces away. With the briefest, half-second scrap of hesitancy, she padded down to the edge of the ocean, fluffy tail swaying with her sensual hips. Devyn bit her lip and groaned. It was as if the vixen knew, just knew, that Devyn's eyes would be absolutely fixed on her backside. Need stirred deep inside the wolf and she swallowed hard as she stepped up to join the vixen, standing a shade to the side and behind her for a view other than that of the ocean.

"I'm still not sure about this," the wolf muttered, only just loud enough for Gloria to hear.

Pausing, waves washing over her toes, the fennec fox half-turned, an unusually shy smile cast over her defined muzzle.

"But you're doing it regardless of that."

Winding her fingers between the wolf's, Gloria more gently drew her out into the ocean, step by step, until the waves lapped at their thighs, both able to see through the crystalline waters to where the sand swirled around their paws. Touching her muzzle to the fox's, she breathed in her sweet, natural scent, fresh from the shower as their torsos pressed together. She still couldn't believe they were actually married, that the vixen had said yes. Sometimes she thought she would wake up and find that it was all a dream, a beautiful dream.

And yet it was reality, a stunning, glorious, impeccable reality with all the rawness of real life.

"That's what I love about you, Devyn," she breathed, lips barely brushing the wolf's. "It doesn't matter if something scares you. You have the nerve to do it anyway."

"Sometimes I wish I had that too."

Only Devyn would have caught the flicker of doubt in the fox's eyes and she drew her in close, sharing breath, as she sought to smother it. Work had not been going smoothly for the vixen, though she did not like to talk about it. They were better set to spend their time and energy on each other, not fretting about a world that could have been light years away for all the significance it held to the sweethearts.

"Come now!" Devyn dropped a cheeky kiss on Gloria's muzzle, too quick for the vixen to respond with anything other than a surprised yip. "No talk of this! This is our honeymoon and we're here to enjoy."

She smirked, eyes gleaming.

"Even if we are just in our fur."

Clinging on to one another, they cautiously edged into deeper water. Devyn stifled a yelp as the waves lapped at the folds between her thighs – an intimate region that she never would have expected to feel that sensation upon. She gnawed the inside of her cheek, wading all the way up to her neck, as her fur floated away from her body underwater, making it appear in the moment as if it was as light and fluffy as it was when she was dry on land. The wolf giggled and swept her paw through the water, the sunset glancing off the surface to tint the furs themselves with a sultry hue.

Wrapping her arms around the wolf, Gloria relaxed on to her back, letting the water support her, as she kicked out into deeper water, their bodies pressed together. Her paw brushed a breast and Devyn caught her breath, thinking it an accident as the vixen privately grinned like a Cheshire cat. They drifted further out so that their paws would not have touched the ocean floor if they had tried, letting the ebb and flow of the waves rock them into a cool lull, eased into one another's arms as if they would never, ever have to let go again.

And, with their families accepting their relationship, a wonderful wedding at their backs, they never would again.

Floating, they stared up at the night sky as the first stars pricked into life, dotting the heavens until the galaxies stretched further than their naked eye could see. Inevitably, for it was difficult to remain chaste with a firm-bodied wolfess pressed to one's chest, Gloria's paw wandered, stroking down the wolf's chest to her taut stomach and lower. Squirming, Devyn made as if to turn but was abruptly stopped by Gloria's paw squeezing between her thighs, fingertips teasing ever so lightly over her mound. As the vixen's paw quested lower, nudging between the wolf's lips, Devyn bucked and arched, held up only by her partner and the rock of the waves.

With a soft yip, the fennec fox eased the wolf off the buoyancy of her body and turned her around in the water, eyes alight. She dipped her muzzle to Devyn's breasts and, as the water lapped the underside of her muzzle, devoted attention to each in turn, covering the soft, damp fur in kisses until the wolf's heartbeat quickened. Then, and only then, did the vixen part her lips with a wicked smile and take one of the wolf's nipples into her muzzle, suckling gently and playing her tongue over the nub.

"Oh...Gloria," Devyn murmured as that tongue curled sensually around her nipple, teasing the bud of flesh into a hard point. "Can't wait until we get back to the hotel, can you, sweetie?"

"I wanted you from the moment we set paw-pad upon the sands," the vixen giggle, lapping over Devyn's muzzle.

The wolf blinked innocently, a paw cupping her lover's cheek. On her finger, the wedding ring shone.

"What, only then?"

"Cheeky..." Gloria nuzzled between the wolf's breasts, stumbling as their hind paws hit solid sand again, closer to shore. "Do you even know how strong you're looking? You're strong enough to pin me down if you wanted to."

Devyn grinned, teeth flashing white, as she guided the fennec fox back, paws on her hips. The water lapped at their calves, retreating down their legs, solid ground once again becoming a reality as wet fur clung to their bodies, accentuating every curve. And, through the sodden fur, two pairs of pink nipples poked out, each begging to be licked and nibbled with the most loving of muzzles.

Paws on the fennec's hips, the wolf smiled and fluttered her eyelashes, pressing her muzzle into Gloria's neck; the fennec trembled, tail flicking restlessly.

"I think you'd like me to pin you down," she breathed, teeth nibbling down the fox's neck, bumping Gloria's hind paws in her haste to get her back to the marginal seclusion of the rocks. "Maybe we'll have the strap-on out again tonight..." She licked her lips, nipples taut in hard buds of flesh. "You make the most wonderful moans when I'm deep inside you..."

Gloria inhaled sharply, ears twitching. A spark lit up her eyes and she dropped a quick, cheeky kiss on the wolf's lips, pushing her softer body up against her partner, her love, her wife.

She would never get tired of saying that. Her wife.

"Same to you when I'm tonguing your clit and you're trying to stop me," she murmured in turn, fingers running through Devyn's fur, from shoulder blades to lower back, over and over again. "Remember that time on the phone?"

Devyn let out a short bark of laughter that echoed across the deserted beach, startling an exotic bird that she could not put a name to from a palm tree.

"With my mother on the end of the line!" She laughed, shaking her head, though her paws wandered, one chancing a quick, teasing squeeze of the fox's breast, more than a comfortable pawful for her. "I couldn't get off the phone and you wouldn't blinking let up either! I don't know what got into you that day!"

Giving the wolf's tail a playful tug, Gloria squealed and darted out of reach, behind the rough outcrop of rocks, heart pounding in her chest. Adrenaline pulsed through her veins, potently entwined with sheer, raw lust. Devyn followed, a grey streak across the sand, and growled playfully, ears pricked, as she tackled the giggling fox down to the sand, muzzle crashing together in a tangle of demanding tongues. Moaning into the kiss, Gloria shivered, a lick of a tremble running down her spine and fluffing up her tail between her legs as her hips lifted to meet Devyn's.

Breaking the kiss and panting lightly for breath, the wolf winked, tail wagging wetly.

"Payback is sweet."

She paused.

"Just like you."

Lowering her muzzle to the fennec fox's breasts, the wolf ran her tongue around her nipples, delighting in how her partner's body reacted to her touch. Each and every tremble was like the first all over again and the moans and whimpers tickling Gloria's lips only spurred the wolfess on, gently massaging Gloria's breasts with both paws as her muzzle trailed a path lower and lower. Hot breath washed over the fox's mound, tucked between her thighs with an inviting gleam of moisture on the pale lips, and Gloria bit her lip, teeth digging in lightly though she did not yet bit hard enough to break the skin. Suppressing her grin, Devyn wrapped a paw around as much of the fox's thigh as she could, claws lightly pricking soft flesh beneath fur, and traced a line over Gloria's lips with the very tip of her tongue, not yet dipping inside.

Twisting, the fox threw her head back and moaned, bucking her hips as if it would spur Devyn on. To her surprise, and a little annoyance, the wolf pulled back, merely brushing her nose over Gloria's pussy lips and leaving a cool chill of moisture from her muzzle behind. Devyn's clit tingled with need and she closed her fist, thumping it into the sand as she tried yet again to arch up to the wolf's muzzle: more! Devyn raised an eyebrow as the fox whined, collapsing back to the sand as a blush coloured enough of her cheeks that it showed through her fur where it stuck together, still damp.

"Say you want it," she whispered, her voice a sultry, sinuous weave from her lips.

Gloria groaned and shook her head, fingers tangled in the wolf's head-fur as she tried to drag Devyn's muzzle back to her pussy. But the wolf was stronger and braced herself, giggling as the fox's efforts proved hopelessly futile.

"Mmmph...Devyn!"

"That doesn't sound like you need it enough," the wolf said, amusement adding a wicked lilt to her tone. "I'll just have to try a little harder."

Holding Gloria down with a firm paw on her lower abdomen, not heavy enough to hurt her lover, Devyn flicked out her tongue and trailed it up from the fox's entrance to where her lips parted, clit pushing out from beneath its good. Even without direct stimulation, the pleasure bud swelled, begging for attention, and Devyn graced it with the lightest lap of her tongue, only earning one of the neediest moans she had ever heard from the fennec. Smirking to herself, the wolf wagged happily and tormented the vixen until she feared the restrained tension would cause her wife to snap near in two with desire.

Hips thrusting, Gloria growled and pushed against the wolf's paw, squirming against her to no avail. It was too much! Sand clumped into the fur on her back and buttocks but she couldn't find it in herself to care with need searing through her veins.

"Okay!" Gloria did not take long to 'break', half a laugh escaping her muzzle in a breathy gasp. "You win! You want me to say it? Devyn, I need you, I need you so much. Please, please..." She closed her eyes, fingers twisting into the thicker fur on Devyn's neck. "Please lick me, please make me come, please."

Though the words tumbled from her muzzle in a flurry of fumble, lacking grace in the moment of need, it was all Devyn longed to here. Her wife's need made her blood sing and she growled as she pushed her paws under the fox's buttocks, half-lifting her up off the sand to her muzzle as her tongue lashed hotly across Gloria's pussy. The fox barely had a moment in which to react before the wolf assaulted her again, pushing her tongue deep into her cunny and curling up against her g-spot, the sensitive bundle of nerves that only her practiced lover had ever had the tenacity to find.

Planting her hind paws on the sand, Gloria's short claws, painted a startling crimson, cut furrows through the soft grains, as Devyn lavished attention upon her pussy. Sparing no scrap of pleasure, the wolf withdrew her tongue and curled it around the vixen's clit to suckle as she pushed two digits deep into her pussy. The fennec moaned, the sound both of relief and desire, and pushed up eagerly to meet the wolf's lips as they locked around her clitoris, teasing and drawing out electric shocks of pleasure that sent spasms through her muscles. Devyn pressed closer, holding the vixen in place as she flicked the tip of her tongue more rapidly over her nub.

Writhing, Gloria gave the wolf a run for her money in keeping her 'pinned' down, moving with the vixen as her pleasure ricocheted higher and higher, swelling like the rise of the tide. Only a short distance away, waves lapped the shore as if eager to reach them, and Devyn murred softly into her lover's cunny, driving her fingers in harder and adding a third, suddenly thrilled to be so exposed in her enjoyment, tail flicked up over her rump. Her own pussy moistened with need but she would take care of that particular need later in the privacy of their hotel room. The tip of Devyn's tail flicked. Perhaps even with her new favourite toy – the strap-on she so loved, especially when it was firmly buried in her wife's dripping pussy.

"Devyn," Gloria panted with difficulty, eyes closed as her back arched, breasts thrust up. "I, I can't hold out much longer." Her lips parted for breath and she twisted, the wolf following as she rolled on to her side, a plaintive whine rising into a shrill series of yips. "You just make me feel too good!"

The wolf licked her lips, senses overcome with the tart taste of her lover, intoxicating in its finest form.

"Then don't hold back, my sweetheart."

The vixen's eyes popped open, wide and stark in her pale muzzle.

"Right here?"

"You're the one who wanted to go skinny dipping," Devyn chuckled breathlessly, curling her fingers up against the vixen's g-spot to a chorus of whimpers. "This is what I want to do now. So cum for me, darling. With the scent of salt in your muzzle and the taste of me on your lips."

Flushed, the vixen could do little more than succumb to the riled up wolfess – it was not as if her legs would support her weight in the present moment anyway. She feared that if she tried to rise she would only face-plant back into the sand – or worse, topple on to her lover. No, it was much better to relax under a talented muzzle and let the soothing, electric laps float her away to another world where pleasure warmed her body from the bone out.

Thrusting her fingers more roughly than initially intended, the wolf let out a feral growl into the vixen's pussy, head trapped between her thighs, though she would not complain of her predicament. If she wanted, she could flip Gloria back over and beg for her muzzle, her attention, but all she wanted was for the fox to buck through orgasm on her tongue and paw. Sunset tinting the vixen's fur, Gloria moaned louder and louder, not caring who may hear her even in their secluded stretch of sand, duly hidden, something deep in the pit of her belly winding tighter and tighter, a spring coiled to release.

Throwing her body to her back, the vixen howled her release, the spring snapped, and rocked into Devyn's muzzle, passage squeezing so forcibly that the wolf felt as if her fingers were being sucked in deeper, though that was of course muscle movement only. Sore tongue lapping her lover's clit, Devyn worked hard to draw out Gloria's orgasm, juices soaking her paw and flooding her senses, a heady scent that made her pussy drip, arousal soaking into her inner thighs. Her world narrowed to throbbing ecstasy and the vixen did not even try to be quiet as her body arched beyond physical control, crimson gleaming through her eyelids as orgasm stretched out and out until sweat matted the fur that was already damp from salt water.

She came down from her explosive high slowly to find a wolf between her thighs with a grin so wide that it was a wonder indeed that she was not the figurative smug feline who had taken advantage of the cream. Chuckling breathlessly, the vixen relaxed back, head resting on a firmer patch of sand as Devyn tickled her side, body moving fluidly over hers to bring her muzzle above the flaked out fox's.

Gloria's tongue lolled from her muzzle as she blinked up at her lover, the wolf's head cocked to one side as she dipped her muzzle with a giggle for a chaste kiss on Gloria's lips that the vixen hardly had the strength to return. In that moment and that moment alone, the world could have ended and they and their relationship would have embodied the sheer perfection of togetherness, flaws and all. They learned and loved together and that was the most important thing the two of them could ever claim to have held close.

Devyn linked her fingers with the vixen's, eyes suddenly shy as her ears slipped to the sides.

"Stay with me forever?"

The vixen grinned widely, arms encircling her wife to hold her close, breasts pressed together as they nuzzled into the damp warmth of each other's bodies.

"It's as if you don't have to ask!"